Compromise Likely for New Premier

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)

Australia's minister of education and science, Sen. John Grey Gorton, emerged today as a likely compromise successor to Prime Minister Harold Holt. Holt, who disappeared while swimming in the surf off the southeast coast Sunday, is to be memorialized at a service in Melbourne Friday attended by President Johnson. The President's decision to make the 10,173-mile flight was an unusual gesture of respect for his staunch ally in the Vietnam war.

Deputy Prime Minister John McEwen, the leader of the Country Party, was sworn in today as interim prime minister to serve until Holt's Liberal party, the larger member of the Liberal-Country party coalition, elects a new party leader and prime minister at a meeting Jan. 9.

Normally Federal Treasurer William McMahon, the deputy leader of the Liberals, would succeed Holt. But McEwen made clear to the Liberals that his party would withdraw from the coalition if McMahon was chosen, leaving the government three votes short of a majority.

Gorton, a 6-foot, 56-year-old farmer whose wife was born in the United States, conferred with other Liberal leaders today and told newsmen they had asked him to run for Holt's seat in the House of Representatives so he could take over the government reins. He said he had formally notified McMahon and the party's deputy parliamentary leader of his candidacy.

Wounded in War

Gorton holds a master of arts degree from Oxford and was a World War II pilot in Europe and the Pacific. He was badly wounded.

Rough seas and a strong southerly wind hampered the search today for the body of the 59-year-old prime minister, who disappeared off Portsea, a resort 37 miles south of Melbourne. Searchers said the body might never be found because of the strong ocean currents.

Holt's wife remained at the family's vacation home at Portsea with her three stepsons and their wives. The national radio network played music at the start of its programs today, followed by the reading of messages of sympathy to the Australian government and Mrs. Holt.

Toll Reaches 19 In Bridge Collapse

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP) — A flotilla of small craft began a 14-mile dragging operation on the Ohio River today in an attempt to find the bodies of those missing in the suspension bridge collapse.

Searchers have recovered 19 bodies since the Friday disaster. Civil Defense officials estimate there are still 42 missing.

Army officers in charge of the recovery estimate the dragging operation will take several days. They said small craft will drag "every inch" of the river bottom from the mangled wreckage of the collapsed Silver Bridge to the Gallipolis dam 14 miles downstream.

Captain Returns Home To Seat in Legislature

TRENTON, New Jersey (AP) — An Army captain whose father enlisted him in an election battle back home will be sworn into the New Jersey legislature next month. Capt. Norman A. Doyle Jr., 28, will become Assemblyman Norman A. Doyle Jr. on Jan. 9, three days after his release from the service.

When the incumbent assemblyman decided not to seek reelection, the elder Doyle suggested the possibility of political office in a letter to his son, who was assigned to the Adjutant General's Corps in Vietnam.

"He was overjoyed," said

the father who served on the town council in Kearny for 22 years. "It's a wonderful stepping stone for an up-and-coming young lawyer."

The elder Doyle persuaded Hudson County Democratic leaders that his son, a graduate of Seton Hall University and New York University Law School, deserved a place on the ticket.

And while the son traveled throughout Vietnam as an Army trial officer, the father hit the campaign trail, making speeches, shaking hands and arranging for signs and billboards with his son's picture—and winning the Nov. 7 election by 15,000 votes.

Wilson, Thieu Also Will Fly To Australia

Reported Summit Conference Denied By White House

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson left Andrews Air Force Base at noon today on a 30-hour flight to Melbourne, Australia, to attend memorial services for Prime Minister Harold Holt.

Also scheduled to be in attendance at the Friday services are British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Prince Charles, South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu, Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos and South Korean President Chung Hee Park. Although the latter three represent nations that are deploying troops in Vietnam, a White House spokesman said there are no plans whatsoever for a summit conference on the war.

There was speculation, however, that President Johnson would go on from Australia to pay a visit to the troops in Vietnam.

An hour before departure time, assistant press secretary Tom Johnson told reporters at the White House:

"We would expect opportunities for informal bilateral conversations (in Australia) but there are no plans for any multilateral whatsoever."

In other words Johnson expects to talk individually with leaders of countries that are Vietnam allies, and who will be gathering for the Friday memorial services in Melbourne. However, according to the statement, he does not intend to talk to them in a group setting.

Informal Basis

There had been speculation in Australia about a possible summit conference on an informal basis.

Johnson's flight plan called for going from nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., to Travis Air Force Base, Calif., for a refueling stop. Then he was going to Honolulu, again to refuel, and on to Australia with one additional refueling stop—probably in American Samoa.

The chief executive was expected to spend his first night in Australia in the capital city of Canberra, then go to Melbourne for the services and a possible overnight stay there.

Holt, 59, a close personal friend of Johnson and a staunch backer of firm U.S.-Australian ties, vanished Sunday while swimming and skin diving in the ocean south of Melbourne.

Although Holt's body has not been recovered, the government has announced memorial services will be held Friday in Melbourne. Deputy Prime Minister John McEwen was sworn in today as interim prime minister.

To Meet McEwen

Johnson is expected to meet for talks with McEwen, who will serve in the interim capacity until the Liberal government, dominant force in Australia's coalition government, elects a new leader. McEwen is leader of the Country Party. He is expected to serve a few weeks at most.

It is presumed in Washington Johnson will discuss with Lib-

Washkansky 'Very Serious'

Rejection of Heart Begins

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Louis Washkansky, the heart transplant patient, was in "very serious condition" today, but doctors said they had not given up hope he will recover. Dr. M. C. Botha reported a "very dramatic decrease" in Washkansky's white blood count in the past few hours. This aroused fears that his body is acting against its own tissue—the lungs and white blood cells—more than against the heart grafted into him Dec. 3.

Doctors planned a transfusion of normal white blood cells to combat this. The transfusion decision was taken on the recommendation of a French blood cancer specialist. This treatment has on occasion had "quite remarkable results," Botha said.

Repeat Treatment

Four donors gave blood for this purpose this morning and the treatment will probably be repeated in the afternoon, Botha said.

Earlier, it had been assumed that signs of a lung infection discovered Saturday indicated pneumonia.

The doctors had strained faces, but said there was still reason for optimism that the 53-year-old Washkansky would survive.

Botha, one of the key figures in the heart operation, said a U.S. transplant surgeon, Dr. T. E. Starzl, had encountered similar rejection circumstances in kidney transplants.

Starzl, of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Denver, Colo., had found that most kidney transplant patients whose own tissue had been attacked by the body in much the same way had survived after being ill for about two weeks, he said.

But because this is the world's first human heart transplant and the doctors have no precedent to go by, they are handicapped in trying to recognize rejection when it occurs and in understanding other situations which arise, Botha pointed out.

'Rejection Likely'

Dr. Botha said although there were various possible explanations for the decrease in Washkansky's white blood count, "it seems likely a process of rejection is taking place."

But he added that the rejection process might be affecting "his own tissues such as the lungs and circulating white blood cells" rather than the heart which was transplanted into his body.

Ever since the operation, Washkansky's doctors had believed the greatest danger to him lay in the body's normal tendency to reject organs and other foreign bodies implanted in it. To curb this rejection, he had been given various drugs but they in turn tended to lower his body's normal resistance to infection.

Routine Mission

The Air Force described the plane's flight as a routine training mission. The nature of the trouble which caused the two crew members to take to their parachutes was not disclosed. The men are stationed at Nellis Air Force Base, Nev.

Witnesses said the F4D jet flew on a direct course into the back of the store. Roswell Burk, 15, one of those near the scene, said it looked like one of the wings hit the corner of the building first.

One of the first to rush into the store and lead victims out was Ernest Sanchez, 26.

"I believe I saw the bodies of two children, three women and a man," he said.

Sanchez said he was able to aid several of the panic-stricken persons inside. "I was just inside the store when a woman ran in from outside. 'I think she had a child in the rear of the store. There was nothing but flames there. I grabbed her. When she struggled to get free I pushed her out of the store,' he said.

Warren Bebbington, who was shopping with his wife and child inside the market told how they escaped.

"I looked up and saw this huge ball of fire at the rear of the store," he said. "I grabbed my wife and child and ran for the front. Someone ran out with us."

One of the dead was identified as Sherry Tilton, 19, who lived in a house behind the market. Firemen said the girl was trapped in a back bedroom of the home, when the roof fell in on her.

An Air Force investigation is planned.

Plane Crashes Into Market, Homes in Tucson; Four Killed

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Authorities said today four persons were killed when a U.S. Air Force jet plane crashed at the rear of a supermarket, spewing flames into a shopping center and demolishing two homes.

Flight Lt. Jack R. Hamilton of the Royal Canadian Air Force, the pilot, and Capt. Gary L. Hughes of the U.S. Air Force, the navigator, bailed out of the F40 plane soon after it took off from nearby Davis-Monthan Air Force Base with 17,000 pounds of fuel aboard.

The abandoned plane hit the roof of the supermarket and fell between the rear of the store and houses on an adjacent

Oakland Protests Enter Second Day

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — At least 30 demonstrators, including folksinger Joan Baez, her mother and author Kay Boyle, were arrested today as crowds attempted to block entrances of the Oakland Armed Forces Induction Center.

It was the second straight day of outbreaks in the wake of bloody violence during Stop The Draft Week in mid-October.

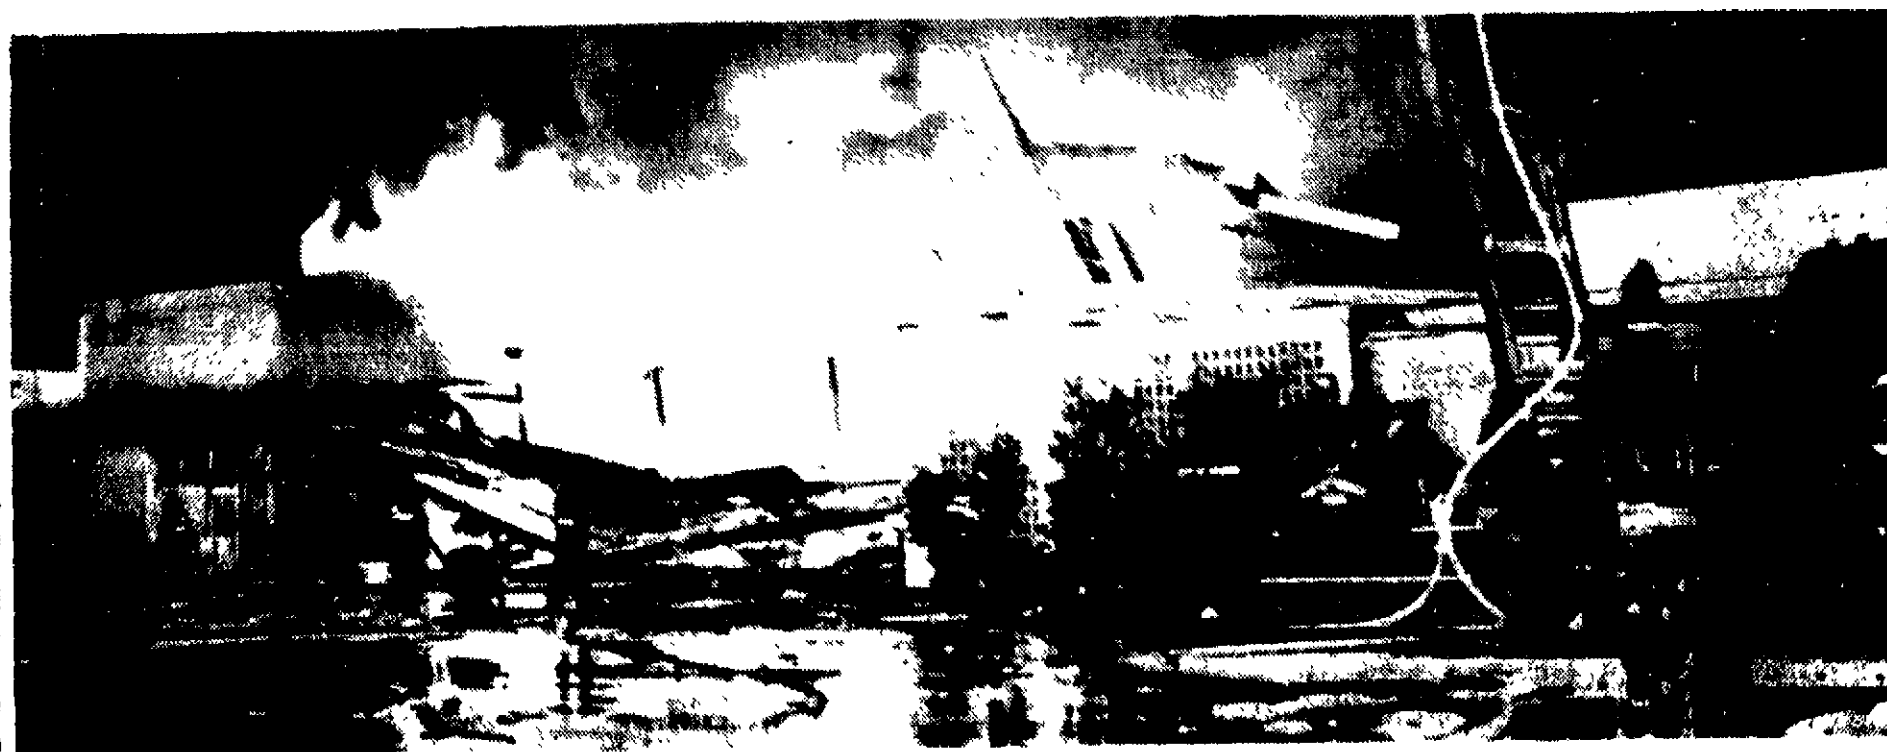

Police said attempts were made today to stop buses carrying young men bound for armed service, but all the inductees were delivered inside the building.

Officers estimated that 350 persons were in the vicinity of the center as the arrests were made.

More than 200 were arrested Monday as the new demonstrations began.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lynn of Kenosha, Wis., were informed Monday by the Defense Department that their son, Army Sgt. I.C. James E. Lynn, has been killed in action in Vietnam.

Men's Turtled Sweaters Fashion News

For years a sweater was a wool garment worn by athletes after exercising to avoid chills (hence, the name "sweater"). Currently, it is the top-of-fashion sweater signature, from formal wear to sports. And its status-rating reaches the peak when it's translated in that cream-of-all fibers, soft, luxurious cashmere.

A cashmere sweater with high or mock turtle (older men generally find the mock style more flattering and comfortable) is the new "in" gift for every special male on the Christmas list this year, whatever his stand on fashion trends — pacesetter, follower, leader, or conservative. The cashmere sweater is the traditional symbol of pure luxury, and with its lively new outlook for tulle styling and brighter colors, it has also become the symbol of fashion awareness.

With Dinner Jackets

The avant garde will wear white turtled cashmere, in a fine weightless knit, with dinner jackets, shattering the long-established rule of the white shirt and black tie; and they'll wear it in colors with tailored suits. Lord Snowden and the Kennedys were among the first to appear at parties wearing turtles with their dinner jackets earlier this year; since then, this evening combination has been turning up more and more frequently. Men who may be less innovation-minded will bask in the quality aura and superb comfort of their turtled cashmires. They are styled in single and double-weight knits, in solid colors, stripes, and heathers, for sports, casual country wear, informal entertaining or lounging. One of the most popular combinations is the turtle worn with basic solid color blazer and patterned slacks. For active sports, the turtled cashmere is often teamed with a heavy wool plaid shirt.

Handsome Sports Team

The turtled pullovers make another handsome sports team with matching cashmere cardigans for an in-action outdoors look that was launched by the golf pros. These pullovers also stand alone, without a companion jacket or sweater, taking the place of a sports shirt with color-coordinated slacks or shorts.

Cashmere is a fiber of superlatives in every way. It's the softest, the richest, the warmest and the lightest in weight. It is exceptionally durable, keeping its luxurious texture through many seasons of wear. It launders like a charm, with no danger of shrinking.

No wonder, then, that more men's cashmere sweaters are bought at Christmas than at any other time of year. And when you select such an endearing gift, there will be literally hundreds of times he'll thank you — every time he wears it.

Men Have Caught on to a new idea—comfort is not necessarily limited to casual clothes. Manifestation of this idea is the wearing of the turtle instead of the traditional shirt and tie. The creamy, soft gray cashmere goes well with a tailored gray business suit. The overall effect is smooth and trim.

Part-Time Jobs Good Way For Teen to Earn Money

Money is a necessity for teenagers in almost all modern living situations. The teenager needs it for lunches, school supplies, transportation, dating and clothing and gifts. Money has many meanings to teenagers. To some it is a healthy struggle for independence, while to others it acts merely as an ego-booster. Like the child of all ages, the teenager's excessive demands for money may reflect a frustrated search for love and security.

Work Experiences Many teenagers earn part of their own money through home and neighborhood chores and after-school jobs. Work experiences are good not only for earning but also to help develop responsibilities and capacities. They're not so beneficial when a teenager is deprived of development in other ways, such as giving up the track team for a little-paying job.

Giving your approval of good family money discussions, the use of money and constructive criticism if he spends it unwisely, may be the kind of guidance most acceptable to teenagers. A strict accounting of his money isn't necessary but the occasional cooperative evaluation of his spending may be helpful. If your teenager sits on the way, his own sense of values will be developed.

Your Problems

Angry Owner Punishing Dog Told She Was Cruel, Inhuman

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: The other day I went to the basement to get the clothes off the line. I discovered that our dog Pal had pulled all the clothes down and I was furious. Pal this before and I've been trying to break him of the habit, but I haven't had any luck.

I was determined to get Pal downstairs and spank him but he was just as determined not to go. Pal is an 85-pound German shepherd, and you might as well try to pick up a grand piano. So I took the broom and began to shove him down the stairs.

At that moment two teen-age girls were passing the house. Our side door was open and they saw me prodding Pal with the broom. They yelled for me to stop beating the dog. One girl said I was cruel and inhuman and that she was going to report me to the S.P.C.A. Both girls were on the verge of tears. I tried to explain but they refused to hear my side of it. So, Ann, I want the girls to know I was not beating the dog, merely trying to discipline him. If the S.P.C.A. comes to our house, I'll die of embarrassment. Thank you very much. — Animal Lover

Dear Lover: Here's your letter and I hope the girls see it. I also hope your husband buys you a clothes dryer for Christmas.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print my response to the lonely widow who signed herself "Discouraged." She wanted to know where all the eligible men are hiding.

Dear Discouraged: I am not hiding. I am resting. I'm a professional man with no money problems, a widower in my early 30's. I have a son I'm proud of. I'm resting because I am tired of matchmakers who have tried for three years, to pawn off every available old maid, career girl, widow and divorcee they know.

I'm tired of being told I should get married because my son needs a mother. I know it. But I also need a wife. Most of all, I'm tired of being told there are no available gentlemen over 30 in this world.

I have run into two major problems. (1) Women who are not ladies. (When will marriage-minded females learn that no lasting friendship ever started in bed?) (2) Ladies who are not women. (Being soft, looking pretty and smelling nice does not add up to honesty, good morals or that vital spark that makes a man want to see a woman again and again.)

So, Hopey, if you qualify, don't sit around and wait for me to find you. Join clubs, even if the people seem seedy. A jewel will sparkle anywhere. Go on dates, even if you have to use judo to defend yourself once in a while. To put it bluntly, stay in circulation. If you sit home I'll never find you. — Still Looking

Dear Still: When you're through resting, you'd better go into hiding. You sound too good to be true.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Exotic Mood of the Middle East is captured in this harem pajama fashioned in soft nylon crepe. It is styled with a cowl neckline, easy gathers, piping at the ankles and a panel of regal embroidery. The fabric, authentic crepe tricot, has all the fluid, frosty texture of crepe plus all the temperament of nylon.

Exotic Holiday At-Homes Loungewear Enhances Mood

Light drifts of snow, the warmth and glow of a mellow hearth, the merry twinkle of lights on a tree — all sum up the festive mood of Christmas. For the gentleman still searching for a gift to not only warm the heart of his lady, but also add to the festive spirit of the season, a sweeping gown and matching peignoir or charming Arabian harem pajamas are fine suggestions. Whatever the style, the basic element is femininity. Silhouette-defining fabrics such as crepes, voiles, laces and chiffons have returned to add a dash of sensuousness to lounging attire. Femininity in lounge and sleepwear has been marked by the return of the 30s look.

New nylon crepe fabrics that are being used extensively in lounge and sleepwear furnish all the advantages of silk crepe without the taxing burden of "handle with care" problems. Because the fabric is nylon, it can be laundered countless times, and the textured crepe surface will never go flat. This is because the crepe pebble is built right into the yarn.

The soft fabrics are trimmed in the dramatic femininity of marabou or coq feathers or ostrich plumes, frills and ruffles that all add to the soft pretty girl look and a delightful way to usher in the holiday season.

the sleeveless empire culotte at right will grace any occasion. The giant magnolia print in hot colors of reds, and oranges on jet black ground brings out a festive mood for the holidays.

Russian Women Doomed To Second-Rate Fashion

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP) — During this 50th anniversary year of the Bolshevik revolution, designers the world over have been serving up a lot of Fashion a la Russe. Ironically, those fur-banded tunic suits, peasant blouses, cossack's hats and babushkas in stylish closets are not representative of modern Russia. They are vestiges of life before the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic came into being.

That the Russian garment industry has made no major contribution to style leadership, does not surprise Mollie Parnis, who took a good look at Soviet women and their wardrobes during her visit to the International Film Festival in Moscow recently.

Since dress manufacturer Mollie's first trip seven years before, modern Russian woman had begun to trim down, tuck up hems, tint their lips and line their eyelids. In a turnabout fashion, the government has tried to create a better style image abroad by taking miniskirt models to Montreal, or London or Rome.

Welch Decoration For Holiday Trim

There is an old Welsh traditional Christmas decoration that might appeal to your family this holiday season. And especially so if you like rustic rather than super-sophisticated decorations. Gather enough small oranges to line — in row form — the area you intend to decorate. Cut enough five-inch twigs from bushes to make three legs for each orange and push them in so that the orange is standing on a tripod. A few sprigs of yew or other evergreen are stuck into the shoulders of the orange and a fat white Christmas candle is inserted in the top.

Jacklyn Martens

Intourist guides and women with access to fashion magazines who have grandmothers at home to make copies are among the best dressed women in Russia, Mollie says. "Why, that looks like a Mollie Parnis dress," she once said, beaming at the Hungarian diplomat's wife who wore it. The woman blushingly admitted that it could at least be a Mollie Parnis design.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

For Weary Eyes

The pressure of duty and the ensuing fatigue are the undoing of a woman's face. Of a young girl's face, too.

When weariness takes over, the skin looks pale and drawn. The muscles feel tight, as if held in a vise. Other than a good night's sleep, the measures that bring relief are a nap, a facial or a long, hot bath.

Ailing House

Easy Way To Cover Cabinets

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q If possible, I would like to try something different on my metal kitchen cabinets. I don't have good luck with paint, it peels off. Could I use the adhesive-backed, plastic-surfaced paper, the kind which sticks on contact? — Milwaukee

A Certainly. But be sure there's no trace of grease or soap film, which could spoil adhesion at those points. This could also be the reason why your paint jobs peeled.

Q What will remove the soot and smoke stains from the stones or bricks above the fireplace? — Columbus

A In most of the mail-order catalogs flooding the mails with Christmas ideas, you'll find a preparation or two "guaranteed to clean up brick." My favorite is still the mechanics' hand soap which contains sand (available at garages and auto supply stores). Scrub with hot water and stiff brush.

Q Of recent date, I have noticed that when our furnace kicks in, there is a most embarrassing type of odor coming up through the registers. What can be done? — Grand Rapids

A Could be the vent pipe to the outdoors has become plugged. Did any birds take up residence in the vent stack last spring and summer? A solid nest can really clog. If you can't find the trouble yourself, waste no time in calling in a good plumber.

Q When I shut off any of the cold water faucets, the pipe thumps like crazy. This happens, though not so loudly, if I turn off the faucet extremely slow and gentle. But it's a real bang if I forget and shut off the water normally. What causes this and what can I do to stop it? — Worcester

A This is called water hammer. And the sooner you get it fixed, the better it will be for your pipes. Obviously, your cold water line has no air chamber, which any good piping should have. What happens is that when you shut the faucet, you immediately stop a heavy, moving column of water in the pipe. With nowhere to go, it slams against the last faucet in the line, and others too, to a lesser degree. Makes a loud noise, does the faucets and fittings absolutely no good.

Cure: Have an air chamber put in, or a capped, 3-foot length of pipe beyond the last faucet. When a faucet is closed, the water will flow on beyond into the air chamber (or pipe section). The air cushion will bring the water to a silent, gentle stop. This is a very simple job for a plumber.

Repeat each part five times

1 Slowly frown and then raise your eyebrows 2 Close your eyelids as tightly as possible, without wrinkling the skin beneath; open wide. Slide the lips upward to the right in a crooked smile; now to the left. Smile a pretty smile and then relax the lips.

3 With your nose blocked up with a cold, and your eyes blindfolded, you can't tell a raw potato from a raw onion, lamb from ham, or cold coffee from dry wine!

Varies Greatly

Taste sensitivity varies greatly. Most people can detect the bitterness of quinine in a solution of one part quinine to one million parts water, but sugar can't be detected in a ratio of less than one part to 200 part water. Gas can also be tasted — oxygen at 35 times normal pressure, according to one researcher, tastes just like ginger beer.

One thing that may surprise you is that as you grow older the number of taste buds on your tongue decreases. In fact, an infant is born with taste buds throughout his mouth. By adulthood most of them have disappeared. Those remaining are concentrated on the tongue. They decrease from about 9,000 in the mid-20's to around 3,000 in middle age, but experience has taught us by then which flavors our taste buds favor.

There's more involved than character clues

The Big Dog

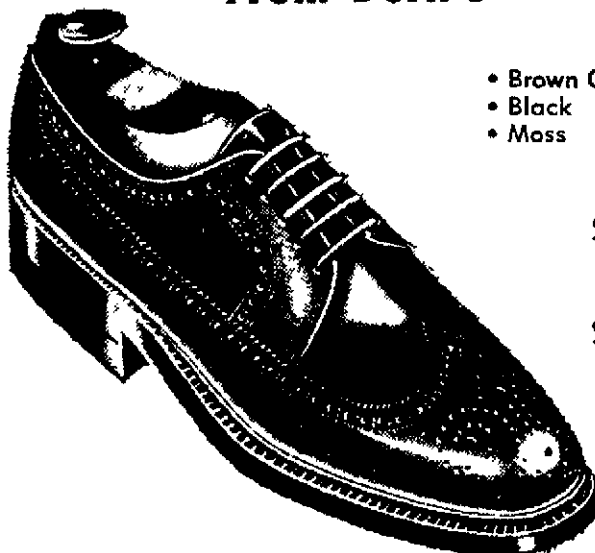

It is seldom physical fear that causes people to select the biggest dog as a companion, but an egotistical desire to control and dominate a powerful animal.

Senses All Taste Together

NEW YORK — If you say, "He has no taste," you couldn't be more wrong — for everybody has several thousand taste buds on his tongue. When you savor a morsel of food, signals are sent from these buds to your brain via nerve fibers.

The things you really have a "taste" for may indicate which of the four categories of taste buds — bitterness, sweetness, saltiness or sourness — are strongest in you!

Dining Pleasure

Your taste buds not only contribute to dining pleasure — their location on your tongue is one of your most important survival senses. Bitterness is registered at the back of the tongue, and since most poisonous substances are bitter, this serves as a "final warning" before the last swallow! The sweet buds are located on the front center part of your tongue, while the sour buds line the sides in front and salt sensitive buds line the sides in back.

In spite of their extreme sensitivity, your taste buds can't detect subtle distinctions and combinations in flavor without the aid of your nose — and they're easily fooled! Foods with more than one taste complicate our taste mechanism. Oranges, for example, are sour-sweet. According to taste-experts who helped to develop a new toothpaste, the spices which we use every day in cooking add to this complication. These have little real flavor; instead they cause a pleasant sensation on the tongue.

With your nose blocked up with a cold, and your eyes blindfolded, you can't tell a raw potato from a raw onion, lamb from ham, or cold coffee from dry wine!

TV Blares Over Long Binh Ward While GI Lies Dying

By HORST FAAS
LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP)—The television news comes on at 7:30 p.m. with a blare of martial music. The television set overlooks 14 beds in this post-operative ward at the U.S. Army's 24th Evacuation Hospital.

It does not overlook the 10 beds of the "shrouds, the ghosts that call me at night," as one male nurse describes them. These are the most serious cases.

They lie in their beds, some with crushed faces and bodies.

They are swathed in heavy, bloody bandages. Tubes dangle from plasma bottles. Some are uncovered to the waist. They look pale from exhaustion. There is heavy breathing. Sometimes there are moans of pain. When the moans increase, a nurse steps quietly to the bed.

Sergeant Dying
In the second bed on the left side of this section there is a strapping big man, a sergeant. He is going to die in 20 minutes. He is so tall that his feet hang over the frame of his bed. He is crew cut and heavily suntanned. He wears a mustache.

The sergeant arrived in the ward on a stretcher three days ago. He mumbled incoherently. Sometimes he screamed.

The men of the ward, who spend much of their time comparing cases, know he is in very bad condition.

Horst Faas

The sergeant is heavily bandaged about the stomach and face. The night he was brought in, doctors worked over him for several hours, often three at a time trying to save his life.

Over the sergeant's bed there is a sign displaying the big red "1" of the 1st Infantry Division and his name, rank, serial number, unit and type of injury. It says he suffered multiple fragment wounds.

Face Mashed
In the bed to the left of the sergeant there is a soldier with an unrecognizable face. He babbles and moans beneath his thick bandages.

In the bed to the right is a boyish, red-haired, freckled artilleryman. He was wounded in the battle at Bu Dop Dec. 3. He is very pale. Sweat rolls from his face. The stump of his right arm lies on his chest, held in place by a rope fixed to the ceiling. Despite the loss, he seems to be recovering. When the tall sergeant cries out in pain, the young artilleryman gives him a smile.

Now it is 7:30 p.m. The young artilleryman motions to Spec. 5 Vincent J. Peters, a male nurse from Manitowoc, Wis., and asks to be moved in front of the TV set.

A 10-inch plastic Christmas tree stands between the bed of the young artilleryman and the bed of the man who is going to die.

No Water
The big sergeant ignores the blaring television. He pleads for water, but it cannot be given to him because of his wounds.

It is 7:35 p.m. and another male nurse moves from bed to bed, handing out Christmas cookies that came in a package from the States.

The Vietnamese war news is coming via television. The announcer tells of more than 400 enemy killed in the Mekong Delta, new clashes along the demilitarized zone, air raids over North Vietnam. Some of the patients stare at the ceiling as they listen. The red-haired boy with the stump for an arm looks at the set, but his eyes seem to be somewhere else.

Then the male nurse with the cookies, Spec. 3 John McDeth of Marion, Ohio, drops the box on a bed and rushes across the room.

Head Drops
The head of the tall sergeant has fallen back. His mouth and eyes are open. Peters also rushes to the bed. They take turns massaging his broad chest. McDeth, who is only 22, looks very young now.

Lt. Kathleen Costello, a pretty 21-year-old nurse from Danbury, Conn., suddenly loses the cheerful manner that marks her daily rounds among the wounded. She leans over the tall sergeant and for a moment tries mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Then she looks up, puts both hands to her head and pushes up her hair. She is near tears as a nervous giggle escapes from her mouth.

Then she reaches for the telephone, dials and gets a busy signal. The eyes of nearly all the patients are on her. She hangs down the phone, lights a cigarette, tries the phone again, still busy.

"Please," she says, "somebody run to the emergency room, hurry."

News from Home
Over the television set comes sports news from the States.

A sailor, admitted a week ago with a shattered hand and with bandages over an eye, runs from the ward slipperless and wearing only blue hospital pajama pants.

The two male nurses continue to massage the giant chest. Nurse Costello prepares a hypodermic. Only three minutes have passed.

The doctor, found in his quarters, walks into the ward wearing civilian clothing. He walks fast, long brisk paces. All the eyes follow him as he moves down the aisle. He fingers his stethoscope and leans over the sergeant while the male nurses continue their efforts to pump life back into the big body.

Nurse Costello stands at his side, ready with the shot. She is very pale, her hair still in disorder.

He is Dead
Now it is 8:05 p.m. The doctor reaches out and with a quick movement, pulls the sheet over the sergeant's face.

Over the television there is a newsfilm going back to the days of the Korean War. It shows Gen. Douglas MacArthur speaking before the U.S. Congress. As the doctor pulls up the sheet, the general is saying "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away..."

Nurse Costello steps away, straightening her hair, and again the nervous giggle that is almost a sob escapes her. The two male nurses light cigarettes. Their hands tremble.

For a half a second, everything in the ward is quiet. There is no sound except the old general's voice on the television.

Screened Off
A screen is placed around the bed of the dead sergeant, excluding it from the rest of the ward. The red-haired soldier with the stump of an arm presses his face into his pillow.

The doctor strides out, the same quick pace. He looks bitter.

Another larger screen is brought in and placed around the sergeant's bed, as if to give the dead man a moment's privacy.

No one seems to know what to do. Some of the patients try to concentrate on a World War II battle that now flickers across the television screen.

The boom of real artillery fire from a nearby South Vietnamese outpost shakes the building and clinks the plasma bottles that hang over the beds. The nurses listen to the rumble of the guns.

Body Removed
Two medics come into the ward through the rear door. They wrap the body in blankets and lift it to a roller stretcher. The rubber tires of the wheels make no noise as the stretcher is pushed from the ward.

Now it is 8:15 p.m. Another male nurse, Pfc. Thomas Overholser, takes down the sign bearing the patch of the Big Red 1. He wipes off the grease-pencil lettering. Then he puts the sign away until the next patient from the 1st Division comes in.

Now there is a new program on television. Kim Novak in a comedy. There are a few laughs. It is 8:30 p.m.

A woman from the Red Cross comes into the ward. She wears a light flowered dress and goes from bed to bed handing out cookies. No one tells her what has happened.

For a moment she sits down on the bed that was the dead sergeant's and tries to talk to the soldier without a face.

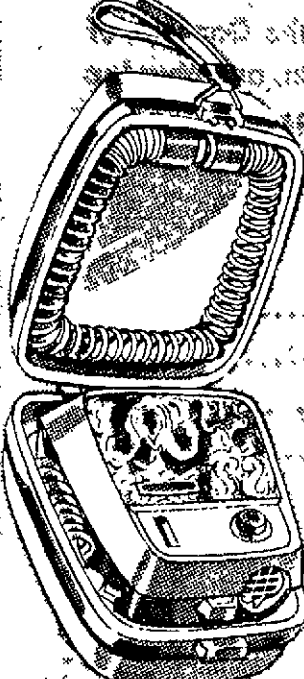

Police Chief Doesn't Want Own Fire Truck

ROWLEY, Mass. (AP) — The town's volunteer fire department held a raffle to get rid of its 18-year-old fire truck. Tickets were sold for $1 each.

Police Chief Robert G. Hardy was the winner recently, but he said he doesn't want it and will try to sell it.

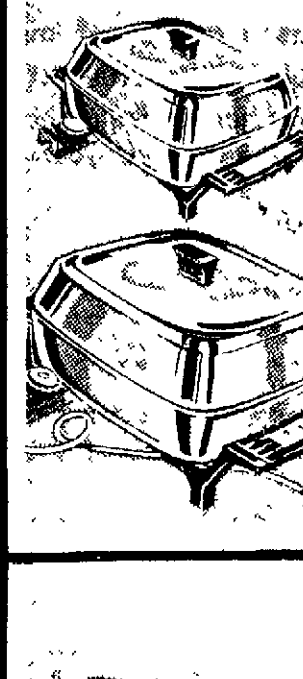

"One department is enough for me," he said.

Police Fail to Get Warrants For Burglary

District Attorney Delays Until More Information Is Available

Appleton police were unsuccessful Monday in their attempts to obtain burglary warrants against two men suspected of breaking into the Martin J. Hupka Jewelry Store and stealing more than 100 watches Sunday noon.

Police, acting in large part on information furnished by a Combined Locks man who witnessed part of the burglary, and on information obtained from Wisconsin State Police and Cincinnati Police, sought the warrants Monday from Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer.

However, Schaefer, after consulting with detectives, said he would make a decision on the issuing of warrants "after more information is received." He declined to elaborate.

Inventory of Loss
Hupka told The Post-Crescent late this morning that he still has not completed an inventory to determine his loss in Sunday's daring daylight burglary in downtown Appleton. He declined to give any estimate of his loss, but said "we should know sometime today." Hupka said the auditors would have to approve the findings.

Earlier estimates, based partially on information given by detectives, were that between 100 and 200 watches, valued at from $49 to $205 apiece, were taken. A large quantity of less expensive watches in addition to other jewelry were left behind.

Detectives said today they were still working with police in Ohio and with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which was called into the case Monday after it was determined that the burglary loss probably would total more than $5,000.

Appeals Board Upholds Sheriff On Suspension

Sergeant Failed to Report for Training In Control of Riots

The Outagamie County Civil Service Board of Appeals, following brief deliberation late this morning, upheld the three-day suspension of a county police sergeant who failed to report for a mob and riot control training session Sept. 23.

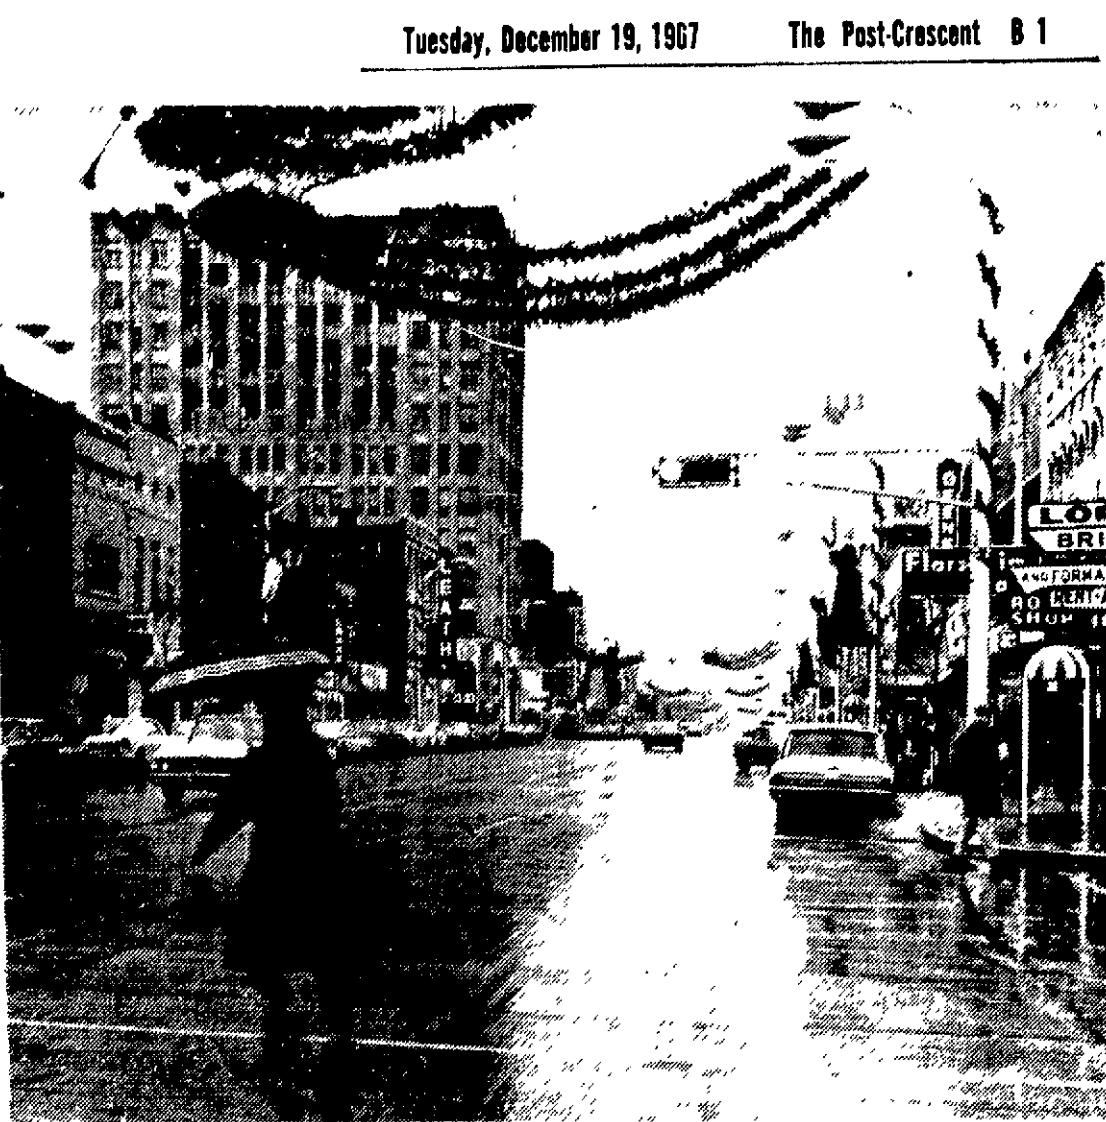

Sgt. Edward Metko, a county policeman for 19 years, appealed the suspension, without pay, ordered by Sheriff Norbert Marx. The training session was held in conjunction with National Guardsmen, in Appleton.

The three-man appeals board, which heard an hour of testimony in the Circuit Courtroom today, ruled that Metko did not give Marx adequate reasons for not attending the session, even though the sergeant had sufficient time to do so.

Marx, one of five county policemen called by A. W. Poth Outagamie County corporation counsel, said he had posted a directive on the sheriff's department bulletin board Sept. 18, ordering all members of his department to be at the session.

Marx testified that Metko approached him three days after the directive was issued.

Politics and Voters Enter Hot Argument Over City Sidewalks

Charges Fly on Who Should Have Authority to Order Installation

A proposed citywide sidewalk policy with strong teeth was damned and defended Monday afternoon during a lively hearing at the city hall.

The city council's street-sanitation committee was host to the spontaneous verbal combustion which resulted in raised voices but no official action.

Ald. Mark Catlin (7th), Arthur Hoolihan (11th) and Ralph Gertsch (19th), with an assist from Dennis Herrling, 1505 Oakcrest Court, struck hard against the committee's suggested policy.

Mild Weather Continues For Shoppers

Mild temperatures continued to greet Fox Valley residents early this week as the pre-Christmas shopping rush headed into its final days.

Monday's highs throughout Wisconsin were averaging about 10 degrees above normal, but the evening lows were somewhat colder than the previous night.

Some high cloudiness began moving into the southern sections of the state early today. Temperatures ranged from a low of 10 above in the Duluth-Superior area to 32 in Milwaukee.

Wednesday's forecast is for little change in temperature. There's a chance of rain over the south and central portions and snow or rain in the extreme north Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The highest temperature reported in the state Monday was 42 at Racine and Milwaukee, while the low was a 10-degree reading in the Duluth-Superior area. The national high was 85 at Fort Myers, Fla., and Cut Bank and Dillon, Mont. shared low honors as the mercury dipped to 10 below zero.

Other highs Monday included Superior 34, Park Falls 36, Green Bay, Appleton and Wausau 38, Madison 39, Beloit 40, and La Crosse and Eau Claire 41. Lows included Racine 26, Beloit 23, Appleton 22, Green Bay 21, La Crosse 20, Wausau 17 and Eau Claire 15.

Action Rescinded to Cancel County Farm Building Leases

The Outagamie County Board's Public Property and Insurance Committee backtracked Tuesday on its decision involving the buildings at the old county farm and may not terminate leases held by private operators.

Two weeks ago the committee had agreed, at the request of the health, education and institutions committee, to terminate the leases by May 1 as the first step toward possible demolition of the buildings and turning the land over to the County Hospital trustees.

The health committee wants the land to develop a therapeutic campsite for hospital patients. However, Supv. Walter Fredericks, New London, chairman of the public property and insurance committee, recommended the leases not be canceled although the original committee action was not rescinded.

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, told the committee that Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 has indicated interest in the county's offer of 100 acres of land on the former farm site and they may also be interested in the farm buildings for agricultural courses.

CESA 8 Board Will Vote on Teachers' Pay

Special Meeting Set Jan. 29 to Consider New Salary Figures

Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 8 Board of Control members agreed Monday night to a special meeting Jan. 29 for adopting a teachers salary schedule and other recommendations of its policy committee.

Dr. Elwin Prather, committee chairman, said the special meeting would replace a February session. He added that the present salary base is about $5,400 with 10 steps of $250 each.

"We should be thinking about these figures between now and the Jan. 29 meeting," he said. His committee made no recommendation on a base salary or increments at the meeting Monday night.

The board adopted two policy committee recommendations — one authorizing a delegate to the National School Boards Convention and another authorizing CESA 8 Coordinator Kenneth Poppy to choose a national convention, to attend.

Elmo Merry, Omro, was unanimously elected to attend the convention at Detroit on April 29 through March 2, and Poppy indicated this was the meeting he also wished to attend.

Recommendations to be acted on were whether the board chairman should name a chairman when appointing a committee, or allow the committee to select one.

The proposal drew considerable discussion, and the board was divided on the question.

The meeting ended with a film and discussion on guidance counseling. Guidance counselors Miss Annabelle Wolf, coordinator of the Appleton School District counseling program, and Miss Frances Buffham gave the presentation.

Employees will decide whether they want the union to represent them in negotiations on wages, hours and working conditions.

Low Bids Announced For Bridge Projects

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Low bidders on two major bridge projects in the Fox River Valley were announced today by the Wisconsin State Highway Division.

An apparent low bid of $285,078 for grading and concrete surfacing of the southbound on the Lake Butte des Morts Bridge on U.S. 41 in Winnebago County was filed by the Streu Construction Co., Two Rivers.

Other bidders were Harrison Paving Co., St. Joseph, Mo., and Parker Co., Appleton.

The approaches will cover 1.2 miles.

The contract for the major structure of the second lane of the bridge was awarded last August to the Nelson Construction Co., Black River Falls, for $670,905.

The commission also announced bids received for the construction of a three-span bridge of 174 feet in length, including eight culverts to cross the Wolf River on County Trunk M between Hortonville and State 54.

Apparent low bidder was Ed Kraemer and Sons, Plain, at $176,876. Other bidders were Vinton Construction Co., Manitowish, and Wunderlich Bros., Appleton.

When the second section of the Butte des Morts bridge is completed, traffic will be directed over it during the period required to build new approaches for the northbound traffic on the existing span, officials said. Paving of the southbound approaches will begin in the spring.

Comprehensive Plan Feature Faces Key Test With Council

Aldermen to Vote on Setback For Franklin, Lawrence Streets

One key feature in Appleton's comprehensive plan for the central business district — a future 10-foot setback for Franklin and Lawrence streets — meets the ultimate test this week.

With this in mind, the city plan commission made a strong reaffirmation of its recommendation when it met at city hall Monday.

The setback, aimed at preventing future encroachments so the streets can be widened in future years, was approved by the city council last month but then aldermen voted to reconsider.

The council will make its final decision when the commission's recommendation is again before it Wednesday night.

"Unless reservation is made now to prevent any further building on the intended future right-of-way, the street-widening project costs may be prohibited when urgently needed," according to City Planner Walter Rasmussen.

'Issue Misconstrued'
Rasmussen and most commission members feel opponents have "misconstrued or misunderstood" the issue and are creating fear among existing building owners.

Main opposition to establishing the 10-foot setback from the inside edge of existing sidewalks is centered on Franklin Street.

Records show there are 10 structures on Franklin Street which would be affected by the setback — but not until the street is to be widened.

Planners say the widening will not take place until 1975 or 1980 but warn that now is the time to lay the groundwork "or really pay through the nose later".

The main purpose of preserving the 10-foot setback now is to prevent the construction of new buildings or additions that would result in additional encroachments, the plan commission explained.

Makes Sense

City and regional planners, along with traffic engineers and consultants, say this makes sense. They say that over the years some existing buildings on Franklin Street are most likely to be phased out, and when new structures take place the 10-foot setback can then be complied with.

"In the case of some churches on the street — all of them located on corners — the street design may be able to minimize any encroachment," Rasmussen said. He had in mind curb edge sidewalks.

The commission has taken the position it does not want to impose a hardship on any existing building owner, and at the same time has an obligation to plan for the day when main traffic carriers will have to be widened to handle the anticipated increased vehicular volume.

The long-range plan calls for Franklin Street to be widened from 37 to 54 feet, providing for four lanes of traffic flowing in and out of the central business district, or by-passing it.

2 in Each Direction

There would be two traffic lanes for each direction — east and westbound traffic. The same plan applies to Lawrence Street which borders College Avenue on the south.

Because of the continuous buildup of traffic on the two streets, it has been necessary to gradually restrict and remove parking in some areas.

"Franklin Street traffic isn't far from becoming comparable or higher than the flow on Wisconsin Avenue," Rasmussen predicts. There are now between 15,000 and 20,000 vehicles traveling Wisconsin Avenue daily.

The plan commission feels the 10-foot setback is more urgent than some aldermen and proponents.

Appleton Okays Pay Hike at Sewage Plant

Union Contract To Cost Additional $7,000 in 1968

Unionized employees at the Appleton sewage treatment plant have accepted the negotiated terms of a new contract which will cost the city an additional $7,000 in 1968.

Personnel Director Jerome Rusch reported on the agreement Monday afternoon during a meeting of the street-sanitation committee.

The work unit of 16 employees, represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), is the last to settle with the city.

All other unions and associations representing various city employees signed contracts several weeks ago.

12-Cent Increase

The contract calls for a 12 cent hourly wage increase and some adjustments in base salary rates, along with double pay for Sunday work.

Increased fringe benefits include one additional "floating holiday," which gives employees 7½ days off; four weeks vacation after 17 years service and five weeks after 25 years; an increase in the city's share of the insurance premium, raising it to 85 per cent while the employee pays 15, and a 1.5 per cent increase in the city's payment into the Wisconsin Retirement Fund.

Enforcement Ordered

City's Officials Attack Litterbugs

A citywide crackdown on litterbugs — with special attention to be given downtown College Avenue — was ordered Monday by the city council's street-sanitation committee.

There are state and local anti-littering laws on the books, but officials said they apparently are not being enforced.

Ald. John Ayers (12th), council president, submitted a resolution recently in which he said the time had come for the city to move against litterbugs.

Ayers suggested existing laws be revised and made stronger.

Printed Reminder

He also felt a public relations campaign would help cut down the incidence of littering and suggested meter maids issue a printed reminder to first offenders to "Help Keep the City of Appleton Clean!"

The committee concluded the existing laws were adequate and should be enforced on a city-wide basis — not just downtown.

City officials have received verified reports that in addition to careless pedestrians who throw papers and other debris into shrubs and other landscape on College Avenue, a few merchants are contributing to the littering.

"We do know there are some who sweep out stores right onto the sidewalk and into the planters," a public works department official said recently.

Containers Affixed

Special containers are affixed to light standards on both side of College Avenue from Drew Street to Richmond Street for paper and other debris. The Downtown Retail Association has block captains to keep tabs on conditions.

Scores of Boy Scouts, who have volunteered in recent months to "police" College Avenue and clean up after litterbugs, reported a pattern of some merchants not keeping the landscaped sidewalks in front of their establishments litter-free.

The remark was made by one city official that "about 25 people should be arrested when violating the litterbug ordinance and hauled into court."

"This might solve the problem," he added.

Enrollment Figures Mean More Schools

Planners Predict 59 Per Cent Boost in Menasha in 7 Years

MENASHA — Faced with the newly computed school enrollments which show a 59 per cent increase in the next seven years, the board of education looked Monday at nine possible solutions calling for capital investments ranging from $4.6 million to $8.9 million in the next ten years.

In the initial review of the staggering figures presented by Arno Haering of the Fox Valley Council of Governments and proposals made by Robert Paynter, architect for Sauter & Seaborn Assoc., Appleton, it was obvious that action must be taken by 1969.

Alternatives in the nine plans Paynter proposed, included one which called for a maximum building program within the next 10 years. It would give the district two high schools and three junior high schools.

The minimum plan developed calls for one new junior high school to accommodate 1,100 students and an addition to the senior high school to accommodate a total enrollment of 1,400 in 1969.

Crowded Year
"No matter how you try to rearrange the enrollment facts,

Proposed Shore Maps Accepted

OSHKOSH — With only minor changes, the majority of towns meeting with the county's zoning committee and Boyd Kinzley of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Committee, accepted the proposed shoreland maps Monday night.

The towns of Algoma and Neenah decided to let their townspeople review and study the maps before acceptance.

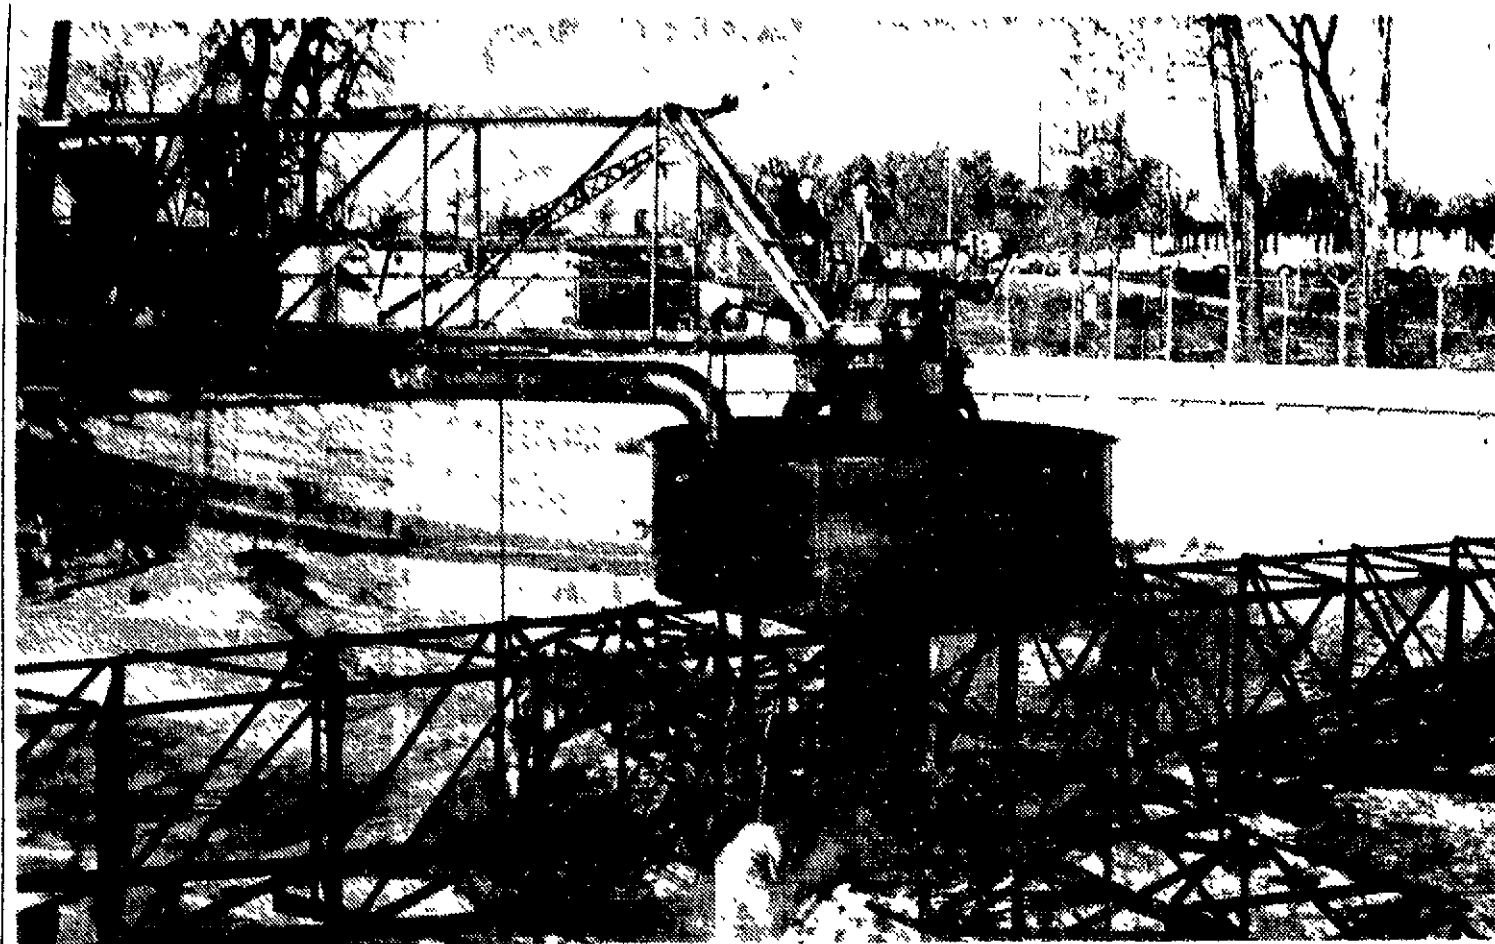

Representatives from the Town of Neenah had questioned the zoning of future development sites, especially along the slough area.

Town Chairman Laurel Heaney, Neenah, said "property lines are sacred." He added that the maps will be brought to the town and a public meeting might be scheduled after the first of the year.

1969 is a bad year for both the junior and senior high schools," Paynter told the board.

The plan favored by the architect calls for new high school to accommodate 1,400 and remodeling the old high school into a junior high school for 900 students in 1969. The estimated cost of this portion of the long range plan is $4,750,000.

It also calls for an addition to the new high school for 400 more students and a new junior high school for 700 by 1978. Projected enrollments show the senior high school enrollment by 1978 to be 1,800 and the junior high school enrollment 1,800 the same year. The total estimated cost for this long range plan is $8,750,000.

Much of the Machinery for the $250,000 clarifier at Kimberly-Clark Corporation's Neenah mill has been installed. The contractor, Fluor Bros. Construction Co., Oshkosh, is awaiting delivery of the remainder. In-

Stream Improvement $250,000 K-C Clarifier 80 Per Cent Completed

NEENAH — Construction is 80 per cent completed on a $250,000 stream improvement facility at the Lakeview Division of Kimberly-Clark's Neenah Mill, engineers in charge of the project said today.

A 125-foot diameter clarifier to treat manufacturing waste water is scheduled to begin operation early in 1968.

The new installation will bring stream improvement expenditures by Kimberly-Clark for its mills bordering Little Lake Butte des Morts to $800,000 since 1961, general manager Fred Hollenbeck said. Total money spent at Neenah Mill alone for stream improvement equipment will be $677,000. Hollenbeck said there has never been a problem to the lake or river from the standpoint of organic material in solution. However, settleable solids from the mill have gone into the lake forming a sludge bank along a portion of the west shoreline.

When the clarifier begins operation it will remove essentially all of these settleable solids, mostly wood fibers, from the mill's manufacturing waste water.

Installation of the clarifier is the second part of a two-pronged program, Hollenbeck explained. The company has spent more than $50,000 to date for dredging and lagooning, and has substantially reduced the size of the sludge bank that had formed along the shore near the mill.

Hollenbeck said the sludge is pumped off the bottom of the lake and piped into two lagoons measuring 75 by 350 feet and 200 by 450 feet. In the lagoons, water is drained off and the solids hauled by truck to landfill areas. Several thousand cubic yards have been removed each year by this method, he said.

After the clarifier is completed, the area around it will be landscaped and the shoreline riprapped to enhance the appearance of the plant area from the lake.

Hidden Expense Hike For Aldermen Probed

MENASHA — A previously unpublicized expense allowance for aldermen, starting next month, broke into the open Monday night as the common council debated a raise in aldermen's pay for 1969.

The fact that the new city budget adopted two weeks ago contains a $20 per month expense allowance for each alderman was brought out by Fourth Ward Ald. William Erickson.

He criticized the action and a private citizen said he thought the council deserved the money but should have been more open in approving it.

The expense allowance and the salary raise proposed in the ordinance both come to $20 per month. The ordinance would raise monthly stipends from $80 to $100 after the April, 1969, elections, and at that time the allowance would stop being paid.

According to City Atty. Richard Steffens, this would let aldermen begin receiving an additional $20 per month, starting after this coming Jan. 1, without violating a state statute that says aldermen cannot vote themselves a salary increase and collect it during the same term.

In Same Term
According to Steffens, nothing prevents them from approving and collecting greater expense allotments, instead of raising their salaries, during the same term of office.

When the salary ordinance came up for debate Monday, Third Ward Ald. William Erickson seized upon the provision "That any expense allowance the aldermen may receive will cease," after April, 1969.

Erickson asked for an explanation of the reference to expen-

Kind replied that according to the new budget, expense payments of $20 a month would go to each alderman.

'For What?'

Erickson asked, "Where does the expense come in? For what?" He added he didn't think Kind was the "fall guy" in the matter, and directed his questions to the rest of the council. Ald. Ernest Koerner replied the matter had been discussed "at our meeting." Ald. Robert Probst told Erickson "You know as much about it as we do. Why don't you discuss it?"

It became apparent they were referring to discussion of the subject during an executive session, one of several in which aldermen met behind closed doors with the announced purpose of discussing "wages," before setting the new budget.

Erickson quoted a passage in the salary ordinance that termed it "invalid for aldermen to increase their salaries during their term of office." He asked, "If not raising their salaries, 'What are they doing?'"

Appleton Man Held For Morals Offense On Sunday Morning

Jack E. Holcomb, 20, 1707 S. Oneida St., asked for a preliminary hearing Monday afternoon on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a 13-year-old girl.

After Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set the hearing for Dec. 22, Holcomb filed an affidavit of prejudice, and the case was continued for Third Ward Ald. William Erickson assignment to another judge. Judge Keller set bond at $3,500. Appleton police, who took Holcomb into custody, alleged the offense occurred at a south-side house early Sunday morning. The girl's parents called police.

Iola Woman Dies of Traffic Crash Injuries

The state's 1968 traffic death toll stood at 1,089 today following the deaths of two Milwaukee women and a Waupaca County woman from injuries received earlier this month.

The figure is one more than on this date one year ago, when the state was moving toward an all-time traffic death toll record of 1,127.

Mrs. Myron Johnson, 60, Iola, died Sunday in a Stevens Point hospital from injuries she received in a two-car collision on U.S. 51, about 10 miles north of Stevens Point, on Dec. 9.

Slippery Roads
The collision occurred when the auto she was riding in, driven by Lois Rasmussen, 19, of Iola, collided with another auto driven by Robert Croteau, 44, of Wisconsin Rapids.

The mishap occurred on snow-packed and slippery road conditions, Portage County authorities said. Mrs. Johnson's husband, Myron, 59, and the only passenger in Croteau's auto, his wife Marie, 42, were also injured in the collision. Miss Rasmussen was charged by police with driving left of center after the accident.

A Dubuque, Iowa, cattle buyer, Thomas Saul, 28, was killed Monday night in a head-on crash in Grant County. His auto and a truck collided on Highway 80 near Livingston.

Mrs. Mildred Wasserman, 64, Milwaukee, died Monday of injuries received Dec. 13 when she was struck by a car while she was walking along a city street.

Mrs. Mary Malone, 69, Milwaukee, collapsed and died in her home Sunday of injuries suffered on Dec. 10 when a car struck her at a Milwaukee intersection.

Fehre appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Council Asked To File Program

Certification Needed For City to Obtain Public Works Funds

A formal request will be made to the Appleton City Council Wednesday night authorizing an application by the city to obtain workable program certification from the federal government.

The Citizens Advisory Committee—appointed sometime ago by the mayor and council—went on record Nov. 29 asking the council to adopt such a resolution.

It would authorize Mayor George Buckley and the citizens' group to prepare the necessary forms to be filed with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Any city wishing federal grants for public works and other programs must be certified as having a workable program. The final requirement to be met locally is adoption of a new citywide zoning code, and that is in the process.

Richard C. Van Sistine, advisory committee chairman, sent a letter to the mayor and council this week seeking early action.

Appleton must have a certified program if wanting to even undertake housing for the elderly or urban renewal projects.

Mayor Buckley said he would bring the matter to the council in resolution form.

Your Money's Worth

Lifetime Worth Based On Education and Job

BY SYLVIA PORTER

What is the money value of an individual human life? The question has been handled about for more than 1,000 years; since Anglo-Saxon law attempted to set a specific money value, called "worth" on family breadwinners, based on unprecedented affluence, and also of unprecedented national accidentmen aged 18-64 by two U.S. Census Bureau experts come revealing answers. First, here is the overall worth of individuals of various ages in all occupations and at all educational levels:

If you are a worker at this age: this amount:

28	165,000
38	127,000
48	81,000
58	34,000

Educational Level	Worth
Elementary School	$142,000
High School	190,000
College	321,000
All Levels	177,000

Next, consider the impact of different yearly pay increases on a 22-year-old engineer with a college degree:

Yearly Pay Inc. (per cent)	Lifetime Worth
0 per cent	$161,000
2 per cent	251,000
3 per cent	319,000
4 per cent	410,000

Monogram of Christ Kaukauna Library Has Historic Chrismon Tree

KAUKAUNA — A Chrismon Tree will be displayed in the library during Christmas week by Friends of the Library. It is believed to be the first such tree in the city.

Chrismon is a combination of two words, Christ and monogram. Many of the designs on the tree are copies of those carved or drawn by the earliest Christians. They were found on jewelry, utensils, on doors, in buildings and in the catacombs.

Early Christians used the monograms to identify themselves to one another, to designate a meeting place and sometimes to show their faith to unbelievers.

Gold and White

Chrismons are made in a combination of gold and white. White is the liturgical color for Christmas and refers to Christ's purity and perfection, gold to His majesty and glory, and the evergreen tree symbolizes eternal life.

The decorations were made of styrofoam, gold braid, sequins, pearls, gold beads and glass-wear and over 40 different Chrismons are on the tree. A booklet on the meaning will be displayed with the tree.

Project committee members making the decorations included Mrs. Leo Ashauer, Mrs. Robert Flynn, Mrs. G. N. Schoenfelt, Mrs. Sheridan Joyce, Mrs. George Jaeger, Mrs. Milton Schmitt, Mrs. Agnes Zimmerman, Miss Ella Hoenig, and Mrs. John Denigan, committee chairman.

Special help and contributions were given by Jeanne DeWitt, Becky Ashauer, Jay Bierstecker, and Peter Bierstecker, Combined Locks.

Trial Date Is Set for Disorderly Conduct

Milton Archiquette, 53, route 2, West DePere, whom welfare authorities allege locked his family out of the house Nov. 2, pleaded innocent Monday to a disorderly conduct charge.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for March 28 and set bond at $100. The complaint was brought by a caseworker for the Outagamie County Department of Health and Social Services.

Return of Monsoons Ends 5 Days of Heavy Raids on North

Bombs Hit 4 Bridges, Missile Sites

SAIGON (AP) — Thick monsoon clouds began to settle over North Vietnam again today, curtailing the brief resurgence of heavy attacks on the North Vietnamese heartland during which U.S. pilots reported damage to four major bridges, more than 30 SAM missile sites and more than 100 railroad cars and locomotives.

The raids cost the United States at least five planes in as many days.

A flurry of strikes went into the Hanoi area late Monday, and some missions again probed deep this morning before the cloud blanket began to close in about noon.

U.S. headquarters reported heavy damage Monday to Hanoi's mile-long Paul Doumer bridge, one of two over which all rail traffic from Red China to the capital must pass. The U.S. Command said a rain of 3,000-pound bombs knocked out three of the bridge's 19 spans.

Bridge Raid

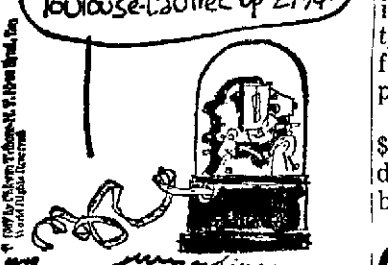

It was the fifth raid on the Doumer bridge and the second since Thursday.

U.S. headquarters also made delayed announcement of the loss of a Navy F4 Phantom jet in raids last Saturday and said the two crewmen were picked up by a helicopter after parachuting into the Tonkin Gulf. It was the 76th U.S. combat plane the American command has admitted losing over the North.

North Vietnam claimed at least 22 American planes were brought down since the break in the weather last Thursday allowed U.S. Army, Navy and Marine jets to return in force to the Hanoi-Haiphong area. The U.S. Command so far has reported five planes lost, with one flier killed, five others missing and three rescued.

CARTER'S LITTLE PILLS

Taken by millions for over 75 years in homes like yours

Despite the losses, American officers were satisfied with the results since Thursday. They said the raids caused extensive damage to Hanoi's two major bridges, with two more knocked out in Haiphong, a series of lesser bridges knocked down around both cities, and more than 30 antiaircraft missile sites were bombed and rocketed.

In addition, Air Force and Navy pilots reported rich strikes on a dozen or more trains caught in the open and said they destroyed or damaged more than 100 rail cars and half a dozen locomotives.

There was one unanswered question. The bridges in Haiphong, previously a top priority target, were hit on only one day and then only two of the city's four main bridges were hit.

Weather Unpredictable

The U.S. air spokesman replied "I don't know" when asked why more strikes were not made in the Haiphong area during the weather break.

Such breaks in the weather are infrequent and unpredictable at this time of the year. It may be weeks or months before

Gold Demand Nearly Normal

European, Asian Speculators Thought Certain of Stability

LONDON (AP) — Demand for gold suddenly dropped back almost to normal on the London gold market today, indicating the gold rush in Europe may be ending.

The price dropped in Hong Kong, and market specialists said the rush appeared ended there also. Hong Kong speculators were reported convinced by the U.S. government's pledge over the weekend that the United States could—and would—hold the price of gold at $35 an ounce.

Bullion dealers in London reported turnover today ranging from moderate down to practically normal.

Sellers stayed out of the market, however, holding onto the hoards of gold they piled up during the past month of uncertainty over the stability of the dollar following devaluation of the pound.

Gold opened in London at $39.1975, unchanged from Monday and just a quarter of a cent below the official ceiling.

Couple Weds Amid Friends In Tavern

EAST WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — It was Sunday and the barmaid in Hugo's Tavern was dressed in a new Santa Claus suit. An old poker table was laden with gifts, cake, liquid refreshments and a large buffet turkey dinner.

Then, as guests crowded into the tavern, Justice of the Peace Cora E. Lake stepped up and married 70-year-old James Dreskin and Bertha Jackson, who confided she was 55.

How come in a tavern on a Sunday?

"Well," said Mrs. Alice Tostal, one of the proprietors, "they were both widowed, both kind of lonely, and they said that's where all their friends were, so that's where they wanted it. It was real nice."

Funeral Flowers Fan Family Free-for-All

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A fight broke out in a florist shop and police were called as two family factions argued over flowers for a relatives funeral.

Four persons were arrested in the plant-throwing fracas and the store operators said they had to close for three hours to clean up the mess.

Both sides of the family refused to discuss the incident, saying, "it's a family matter."

Molten Iron Spills, 3 Workers Killed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Tons of molten pig iron dumped by accident killed three men and injured 30 at the Armco steel mill.

The metal, heated to 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit, spilled 40 feet from a giant ladle Monday into an open hearth area and splattered 120 feet.

Leo Bell, 53, and Houston H. Kreuger, 55, both of Houston, died about seven hours after suffering burns Monday.

A third employee, Norman E. Doss, 49, of Houston, died early today.

Several Hospitalized

Of the 30 workers suffering injuries, 17 remained in hospitals many in critical condition. Attendants said several may be blinded. Others were treated at the plant for minor injuries and one was dismissed after hospital treatment.

Ten doctors were called to treat the victims at two hospitals. They performed five tracheotomies—incisions into the windpipe to permit breathing.

Robert Green, 43, of Houston, who was treated and dismissed, said he could see "nothing but fire" at the time of the accident.

"I ran out of there as fast as I could," he added, still visibly shaken several hours later.

Ohio Starts Work On Redistricting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A joint legislative committee begins work today on a new congressional districting plan for Ohio. The legislature will tackle the problem when it reconvenes Jan. 15.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Dec. 4 that the plan in force for the 1966 elections did not meet the court's one-man, one-vote requirement.

Gov. James A. Rhodes presented a plan to the joint committee Monday. Based on the 1960 census, the largest of the 24 districts would have a population of 406,093, the smallest 404,433.

Lindsay Launches Probe of Aide Linked to Cosa Nostra

Marcus

Lindsay, begin today a painstaking probe into all matters dealt with by former mayor aid James L. Marcus, accused with a Cosa Nostra figure in a city contract kickback scheme. Marcus and five other men, including labor racketeer Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, were arrested Monday in what one city official described as the most spectacular city scandal since the Seabury investigation of the early 1930's that led to the resignation of Mayor James J. Walker.

According to the federal grand jury indictment, Marcus allegedly pocketed $16,000 of a $40,000 kickback in the award of an $800,000 city reservoir cleaning contract while serving as commissioner of water supply, gas and electricity.

It was one week ago today that Marcus, a friend and confidant of the mayor, abruptly resigned his $30,000-a-year post. He had been one of the best-liked and fastest rising young men in the Republican mayor's two-year-old administration.

The defendants, each charged with conspiring to violate federal anti-racketeering laws, face a maximum penalty upon conviction of five years in federal prison and a $10,000 fine.

At their arraignment, Federal Judge Constance Baker Motley set bail of $10,000 for Corallo but released the others without bond for a hearing Dec. 28. Marcus, 37, refused to comment to news-men.

The others indicted were Henry Fried, 60, head of S.T. Grand and Co., and a prominent New York horse breeder; Herbert Ikin, 41, a New York City labor lawyer and a law associate, Charles Rappaport, 30; and Daniel Motto, 57, of Greenwich, Conn., president of New York Local 350, Bakery Workers Union.

John F. Malone, assistant director of the FBI in charge of the New York office, said organized crime apparently was "making attempts to infiltrate the administration of the city," but added there was no evidence of appreciable success.

He said a months-long FBI investigation of underworld efforts to penetrate legitimate government had preceded the indictments.

Head New Department

Marcus, prematurely gray, tanned and expensively dressed, had been slated to head the new Environmental Protection Agency, a superunit combining his own agency plus the sanitation and air pollution departments.

When he resigned last week he said in his letter to the mayor that Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office was investigating a business venture he had been involved in prior to joining the Lindsay team.

The indictment Monday, however, stemmed not from Hogan's inquiry but from an investigation by U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau's office. Hogan's independent investigation was expected to continue.

Rejection Suspected

Constantine Answers Proposals of Military

By DENNIS F. REDMONT

ROME, (AP) — An envoy from Athens ended his talks with King Constantine today and left for Greece with the monarch's answers on when and how he would return to the throne.

The king almost certainly rejected the terms posed by the military regime, which wants him to return as a figurehead. The king has been forceful in Greek politics.

The envoy, Air Vice Marshal Haralambos Potamianos, declined to disclose what the king told him. At Rome's Fiumicino Airport he said: "I am by nature optimistic." He is a close friend of the royal family.

Few observers believed any progress had been made toward an agreement under which Constantine would go back to Greece.

Invited Home

As talks were going on here, the military regime in Athens again said the king could come back but indicated anew this is not the time.

Asked if he would return to Rome for more talks with Constantine, Potamianos replied: "I do not know. Perhaps. It all depends on many things."

The view grew in Rome that the military regime Constantine vainly tried to overthrow Dec. 13 was playing a subtle game with the king: Trying to create for world opinion the impression they want him but posing conditions too difficult for him to accept.

Pressure Growing

The king was under increasing pressure to make up his mind. The new Greek constitution, which will include the status of the monarchy, is to be submitted to the Athens government Saturday.

Constantine Kollias, the junta's puppet premier until he supported the king's attempted counter coup last week, also took part in the talks with Potamianos today.

The junta denied that it sent Potamianos to Rome, but reliable sources said the 60-year-old officer was briefed by junta leaders and was certain to relay the king's stand to them on his return.

Constantine had said he would return if the military regime held free elections, took no reprisals against those who supported his coup attempt, gave an assurance that Premier George Papadopoulos would leave the government, and restored Constantine's former powers as king.

The junta would like the king back, but only as a figurehead, and so far has shown no disposition to go along with the king's demands.

Quiz Brother In Shooting At Poy Sippi

Condition of Victim Still Listed as 'Critical'

WAUYOMA — In an attempt to learn the circumstances surrounding the shooting of an 11-year-old Poy Sippi girl by her brother Friday night, Waushara County authorities said today they will question the youth, despite his "excited condition."

Sheriff Virgil Batterman said that his investigation since Saturday caused him to feel it necessary to talk to the youth today.

Although the girl, Theresa Hanneman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hanneman, was wounded about 9 p.m. Friday, Waushara authorities were not informed of the shooting until a Waupaca Radio Station called for information on it Saturday morning.

Still Critical

The girl still is in critical condition today in the intensive care unit of Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Batterman said about 100 pellets hit the girl in the lower abdominal and pelvic region in the shooting which allegedly took place in a long hallway of the Hanneman home. The boy was reportedly cleaning the shotgun.

Hanneman rushed his daughter by auto to Waupaca Riverside Hospital where she was packed in ice and transferred to Appleton. Batterman said that because of the urgency prompted by her serious condition, doctors apparently "forgot to inform authorities."

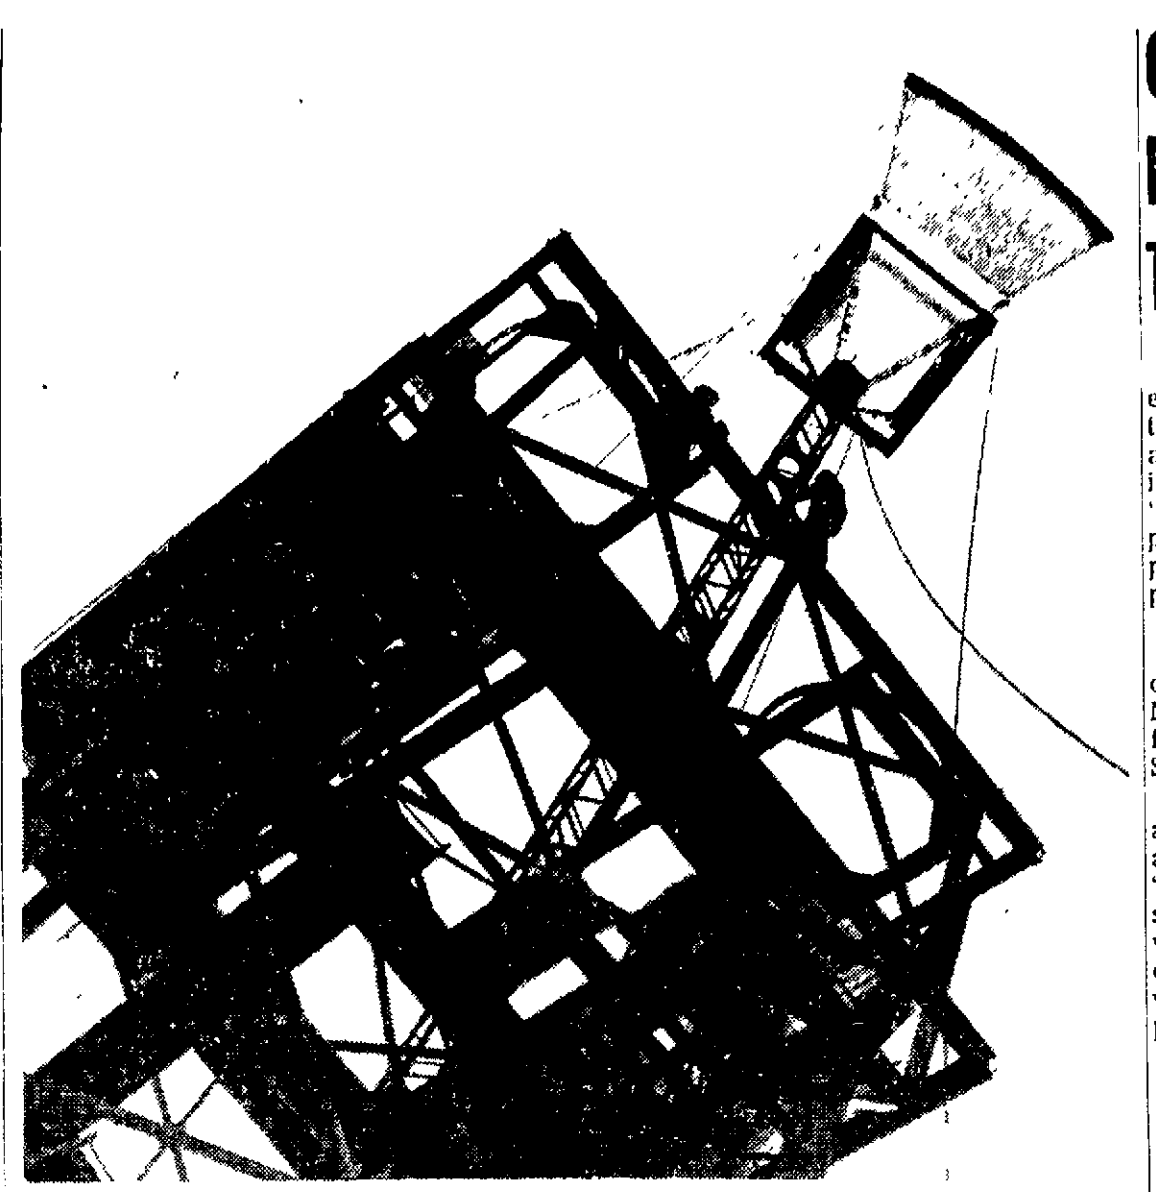

Batterman said that the boy, Alvin, 15, had said he did not remember touching the trigger before the shooting.

Vandals Strike Again At Construction Site Of Appleton Church

More vandalism was reported over the weekend at the Congregational Church construction site on E. South River Street.

Officials of the Hoffman Co., which is doing the construction work, said that a sand tamper was tipped over and sand poured into the fuel tank. Light bulbs and a window were damaged, and three 96-pound bags of cement were dumped into a 50-gallon drum of water.

Police have been called to the site several times in past weeks on vandalism complaints. Police explained that surveillance at the site is being stepped up, and anyone caught in the area without authority will "be dealt with accordingly."

Appeals Board Upholds Sheriff On Suspension

and explained that he (Metko) was off duty the weekend of Sept. 23 and had to "go up north." The sheriff said this morning that several other policemen had asked to be excused from attending, but he had refused them. The only two lawmen who did not attend from his department, he said, was a man who was on vacation and another who had been injured.

Marx testified that he "especially wanted the sergeants there because they would be the key man" in actual riot control situations.

On cross-examination questions by Metko's attorney, Allan Cain, Marx testified that only such things as sickness, death in the family or the like would excuse a man from fulfilling such an order. Marx, who said that he was in charge of taking disciplinary action when his men do not carry out orders, explained that the punishment could have been a reprimand, suspension, reduction in rank, or dismissal from duty.

No Explanation

On further questions by Cain, Marx said he had not consulted with Lt. Lowell Veitch, head of the traffic division, about suspending Metko. Marx also testified that Metko had not explained to him the specific reason he had to "go north" and could not be at the training session.

The second witness was Undersheriff Calvin Spice, who said he had been directed to be at the session. On a question by Ponath, Spice said he believed such an exercise was "necessary in this day and age." On cross-examination by Cain, Spice said that to his knowledge, Metko had not been a disobedient officer while serving under him while he was sheriff for four years.

Other brief testimony came from Lt. Jack Zuelzke, investigator George Hanlon, and Patrolman Orville Crane, all of whom said they had asked to be excused from the Sept. 23 training session, but were refused by Marx. Each also testified that they had not known Metko to be disobedient in the past.

Metko, called to the stand by his attorney, testified that he

Winnebago Supervisors Vote Rental for County Center

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County supervisors tabled an annexation proposal, delayed action until later today on the fate of the buildings at Pleasant Acres and decided to pay rent for the county guidance center.

Supv. Robert Putzer, Oshkosh, had recommended the City of Oshkosh be petitioned to annex 884 acres of airport land and the 26 acre county fairgrounds.

Supv. Roland Kampe, Town of Menasha, reminded supervisors that two years ago he had offered a similar resolution which was subsequently defeated. The vote to table the measure this time was 25-18.

The institutions committee has proposed demolishing the buildings of the 80-year institution. It was pointed out that remodeling the boiler room for had made arrangement last August to have an excavating firm do sewer and dry well work at his Crandon area cottage the weekend of Sept. 23. He produced a bill for services by the excavator.

Tried To Get Delay

Metko, on a question by Cain, said that after the directive was posted Sept. 18, he tried to reach the excavator by telephone, to seek a delay in the work, but said he could not contact him.

The sergeant said he met Marx in the courthouse Sept. 29 and informed him he and his wife had to be "up north." Metko said Marx refused to excuse him from the session, and Marx reportedly stated that several others had asked and were refused. Metko said there was no further discussion on the matter. He said he did not explain to Marx that he had hired an excavator.

On a question by Cain, Metko said he felt it was an "emergency" that he be at his cottage the weekend of Sept. 23.

Metko, in reply to a question by L. C. Smith, chairman of the appeals board, said he was questioning the severity of the penalty by Marx, and not Marx's authority to suspend him. Metko said he lost $73.92 in pay because of the three-day suspension. He said he had attended every past training session.

Today's hearing was the first called by the appeals board in two years.

Setback in Effect

The setback would be in effect on Franklin from Division to Meade Street, and on Lawrence from Badger Avenue to Durkee Street.

It is really a fairly simple action now," Rasmussen said about the setback reservation. "It will prevent investors from spending thousands of dollars on what would normally be street encroachments because they will be aware of future street project plans."

Rasmussen said the city

Woman, 72, Fined For Shoplifting

Mrs. Alma Morris, 72, 1418 N. Meade St., was fined $50 and costs or 24 days in jail Monday on a shoplifting charge brought by Appleton police.

Mrs. Morris had pleaded guilty shortly after her arrest Dec. 8, but sentencing was postponed.

Police said the woman stole a writing tablet and two rolls of tape the morning of Dec. 8 from the F. W. Woolworth Store in downtown Appleton. She also stole several small articles from two other Appleton stores, but was not formally charged with the other offenses.

Police said the woman would also save thousands of dollars by not having to pay damages for any future encroachments when it comes time to widen the streets.

The plan commission takes the position that unless the setback plan is adhered to, it could have an adverse effect on the entire traffic-carrying network in the downtown area when considering other future public works projects through 1985.

Charges Fly on Authority To Order Walk Installation

cial ability to pay did not represent a valid reason why a sidewalk should be installed in an area when residents felt they were not needed.

"Local conditions in a given area should dictate whether a sidewalk should be put in," Herring declared, "I can't see just taking the entire city and saying it has to have sidewalks all over."

Herring, a part-time assistant city attorney appearing as a property owner also claimed the policy was an example of "another administrative agency taking power away from the aldermen."

Thompson disagreed and said, if anything, it would help aldermen with problems in their wards where people who should have sidewalks refuse to put them in.

"This proposal is not a policy," Catlin said, "It is an order."

Thompson reminded Catlin and others the committee submitted the policy informally to the council sometime ago and invited "constructive comments."

"Receiving none, we felt the aldermen went along with what was proposed and officially introduced it," Thompson said.

Kalata said for years aldermen had been "afraid to order in streets or have them resurfaced for fear of losing a few votes." He felt the street resurfacing program worked well when taken out of politics and recommended the same for sidewalks.

East High Thespians Present Moliere Farce

BY WARREN MAGNUSON

that his daughter marry some one in the medical profession and chooses the imbecile son of his doctor.

Angelique, however, is in love with another man. Through the efforts of Toinette, a saucy servant, the mercenary wife is revealed to the blind husband, and the daughter permitted to marry the man she loves.

Social Parodies

The play is filled with Moliere's parodies of social types, and Sarah Paul's charges play the types more than reasonably well throughout.

Argan, the invalid, played by Bill Jones, missed timing in his opening lines, and needed force variation. His character was well developed, however, and he played the entire show with intensity. The prime example during the opening night performance was his ad-lib when a technical problem regarding his self-indulgence, affects severe illness. His obsession makes him a perfect target for the medical charlatans of the day and for a grasping second wife who hopes to see him killed off by the doctor's cures so that she may inherit his fortune.

To save money, Argan insists

Sharon Strover. It is to Miss Strover that the ad-lib line was thrown. Had she been anything less than the character Moliere had in mind, the line would not have worked.

Angelique, played by Kris Shockley, looked beautiful as the young girl in love, but was a bit short of the smiling charm necessary to a total appearance. Argan's mercenary wife, portrayed by Devon Schneider, started out a bit slowly, but became a pretentious grasping soul as the show progresses. Her best scene is her reaction to Argan's death.

Andrew Hardacker, as Bennefor, the attorney, offered the audience a portrayal of good stylization in gesture and body movement. Cleante, played by Neal Callisch, as the lover of Angelique, gave to the audience a very clear, full voice, with a vocal range of no small merit. The song between Cleante and Angelique goes very well because the singing is not professional (an error often made in this script).

Scene in Tableau

Dr. Diaforus, portrayed by Randy Pakalske, was mechanical in his opening lines. When he began to react, he produced a sound characterization. Chuck Crane, as the bespectacled, half-witted son of the doctor, acted the difficult role in every respect. Louise, Argan's younger daughter, Judy Uehlein, was the pouting child of 10 that she should have been. Mons Beralde, played by Jon Menn, was a bit stiff in the beginning, but he certainly offered the intellectual control Moliere expected of the character.

The Apothecary, portrayed by Jeff Galloway, is a picture in tableau when he comes on the stage. Doctor Purgon, played by John Bogan, is the insulted, farcical doctor that Moliere intended.

The finale, which is the most difficult part of the entire script, also lends credit to Sarah Paul's talents as a director, and to the cast as well. It plays, though slowly, with all the pageantry intended.

In short, Sarah Paul's actors have, if one accepts the idea that the future of theater is found in the schools of this nation, added a rather bright light to the theater marquee.

The reviewer is a member of the faculty of the College of St. Theresa, Winona, Minn.

Lutheran High Yuletide Concert Surprises Jingo

Progress of Music Department in Few, Short Years Shows in Holiday Program

BY JINGO

Moved by the spirit of the season on an unchristmas day, Jingo ventured out Sunday evening to attend one of the annual yule concerts presented by the local high schools and received a musical Christmas surprise.

The concert was presented by selection added variety to the three-part harmony which the young ladies sang under the direction of Kurt Oswald.

An additional musical family was heard from as a bass choir performed three carols, of which the best was an arrangement of "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

Choral Feature

An abundance of female voices was used by choir director Rolloff to good advantage in a descant arrangement of "O Come, All Ye Faithful" as the choristers presented their portion of the program.

The joy of the season was evident in their numbers, too, as when a few late-popping chestnut sound effects from the bass and tenor sections in Leroy Anderson's "Sleigh Ride" caused smiles among listeners.

The eagerness of the audience, however, did detract in one minor way from Jingo's enjoyment of the music. This came at the end of the sacred portions of the concert, when appreciative listeners broke custom and applauded.

Disapproves Applause

It may be just one of Jingo's quirks, but applause for sacred numbers seems inappropriate and not worshipful, as such music in such a setting should be.

Jingo also missed representation on the program from the Lutheran musical heritage. It would have been nice to have heard a selection or two by Bach or some of his noted predecessors in the German Lutheran tradition.

But such is a matter of personal taste and perhaps quibbling. And one should not quibble after receiving a musical Christmas surprise.

Holiday Spirit

The holiday spirit continued so that even a momentary wait for some vital jingle bells for the concert band's last number did not dampen the appreciation of the young musicians' listeners.

Several years ago Lutheran High expanded its music staff by adding Lanny Prahl as band director and allowing Gerhard Rolloff to concentrate on choral work. The move has, on the evidence, been a wise one.

Performing creditably Sunday night also was the junior band, an apprentice organization consisting of younger musicians who presented preconcert music, an excellent way of introducing them to playing before an audience without the pressures of a concert program.

Instrumentalists Perform

Other instrumental work included Jon Peterson on the organ, with works by the modern American composer Winston Cassler and J. S. Bach, and a string ensemble accompanying the girls' triple trio.

The use of the strings and the solo work of flutist Jennifer Worlund on another triple trio

Packers Help Organization's Fund Raising

Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr paid an impromptu tribute to teammate "Fuzzy" Thurston during Monday's second annual Packer-Rawhide, Inc. luncheon at the Left Guard Charcoal House.

Starr said of Thurston, who hasn't seen as much action this season as he has in the past, "Fuzzy typifies the spirit of the Packers. He has given his heart and soul to the team for many years. I've never seen a person (except possibly Zeke Bratkowski) who is as well prepared to play a game as Fuzzy. He's as well prepared mentally as anyone in the starting lineup."

Starr and Thurston were among the 15 Packers who attended the luncheon as a means of spurring financial assistance to the Rawhide project. Other Packers on hand were Herb Adderley, Jim Weatherwax, Donnie Anderson, Tommy Crutcher, Ron Kostelnik, Boyd Dowler, Willie Davis, Dave Robinson, Bob Hyland, Don Chandler, Bob Long, Jim Grabowski and Chuck Mercein. Jay Bachman, of the taxi squad, was also present.

The luncheon, which attracted a capacity group of Fox Cities residents, was donated by Thurston, Max McGee and Bill Martine.

Rawhide, a non-profit organization that serves underprivileged and neglected teen-aged boys, is now a success in every respect, except financially, the audience was told. Thus far, a total of about $62,000 has been raised on behalf of Rawhide, but a similar total must be raised over a period of time to remove the debts still facing the organization, the banquet group was told.

Ralph Lewis and Martine were co-chairmen of the luncheon, and Lewis served as master of ceremonies.

'Red' Smith Has New Job

Richard (Red) Smith, for whom Appleton's top-drawing midwinter sports banquet was named, now has a new position with a large corporation.

Smith has been appointed assistant to the president of Meister Brau, Inc. and is responsible for coordinating sports promotion for the firm. Smith had been chairman of the board of another brewing firm prior to its merger with Meister Brau earlier this year.

"Red", one of the best-known athletes produced by the Fox Cities area, will present the Smith award to C. O. Baetz during the Jan. 23 banquet at Reetz' Al Lopez will receive the "Nice Guy" award. Tickets will be available soon according to banquet chairman George Kloes.

Smith was born in Combined Locks and was active in both football and baseball in the area. He enrolled at Notre Dame and in 1926 was named All-American guard. He was also captain and catcher on the baseball team.

Red was graduated in 1927 and played fullback for the Green Bay Packers. He joined the New York Yankees in 1928, returned to the Packers in 1929 and played with the New York Giants in 1930-31-32.

From 1933 until 1950, Smith coached college and professional football and baseball in Green

Badgers Face Florida Gators; Warriors Entertain Villanova

Wisconsin Foe Has 3 Starters Towering Over Tallest UW Cager

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin's basketball team, fresh from a championship performance in the Milwaukee Classic, can't look back. The Badgers must look ahead to Wednesday night. Then they'll be looking up. The Gators of Florida, fresh from a Monday night upset victory over third-ranked and previously unbeaten Vanderbilt, are coming to town. And they have three starters who tower over the tallest Badger regular.

The head-Gator is 6-foot-10 center Neal Walk, who sparked Monday night's come-from-behind 74-72 triumph over Vanderbilt. He was held scoreless in the first half, but exploded for 17 points in the second period and swept the backboards in leading Florida to its fourth victory against one loss.

"Smaller" Gators include 6-foot-6 Gary McElroy, 6-foot-7 Dave Miller, 6-foot-5 Andy Owens and 6-foot-1 Mike Leatherwood.

Florida to make the best use of its big men, plays Leatherwood at guard and the other three at forwards.

Walk averages nearly 28 points per game and is one of the nation's leading rebounders. Owens, only a sophomore, averages 18 points and McElroy 13.

Namath Eyes All-Pro Pass Mark Sunday

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—With or without a fractured cheek bone, Joe Namath of the New York Jets will try to surpass the all-pro total yardage record Sunday against San Diego.

X rays of his swollen jaw were to be taken later today, but Namath said Monday he wouldn't let a minor injury stand between him and the 83 yards he needs to exceed the 3,747-yard record set Sunday by Sonny Jurgensen of Washington.

Namath set the American Football League mark Sunday at 3,664 when he threw for 370 yards.

If his cheek is fractured, it will be wired and he'll wear a plastic face shield. Jet publicist Frank Ramos said it shouldn't affect his play.

Kaukauna Tops Roosevelt to Retain Lead

Menasha and Einstein Stay Close in Race

Kaukauna	4	0	Kimberly	2	3
Einstein	4	1	Madison	2	3
Menasha	4	1	Conant	2	4

Roosevelt	2	2

Kaukauna's freshman cage team shook off a second-quarter cold spell and romped to a 63-42 victory over Appleton Roosevelt to retain first place in the Valley Frosh League Monday. It was the unbeaten frosh Ghosts' fourth straight win.

Einstein and Menasha both kept on Kaukauna's heels with triumphs. Tim Moriarty fired in 37 points for Einstein in a 69-52 win over Kimberly, while the Bluejays dealt Wilson a 66-58 defeat.

Madison tipped Conant, 62-60, in overtime, as Steve Schommer hit two free throws within the last minute of play.

Kaukauna jumped out to a 15-7 advantage at the end of the first period, but Roosevelt came back to hold a 19-18 edge just before the half ended.

Explodes For 24

However, Kaukauna exploded for 24 points in the third quarter and held its foe to 10. Tom Giordana led the winners with 17 points and male Leon Franke added 15. Rich Keitner took game honors for Roosevelt, with 21.

Einstein trailed, 13-10, at the close of the first period but came back to lead, 29-24, at the half. Moriarty hit 23 of Einstein's points in the first two periods, and his work on the boards foiled any Kimberly bid for a rally. Tom Aerts connected for 21 points for the junior Papermakers.

In posting its fourth win, Menasha expanded a 2-point (21-19) halftime lead with a hot third quarter. Jeff Pommerening sank three quick baskets to start Menasha off on a 25-point quarter. Trailing, 46-31, at the start of the fourth quarter, Wilson rallied to pull within four points — but Menasha again pulled away.

Pommerening poured in 31 points, while Rick Luebben tallied 25 for Wilson.

Madison tied Conant, at 54-all in the fourth quarter, then went on to outscore its Neenah foe by an 8-6 margin in the extra period. The Appleton quint had to come from nine points down entering the fourth quarter.

Don Werner led Madison, hitting nine baskets and 12 of 13 gift shots for 30 points. Mike Fiedler, of Conant, scored 33 to take game honors.

Purdue, Minnesota Lose

Florida Upsets Vanderbilt

By ED SCHUYLER Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer

The Vanderbilt Commodores ran into a Walk.

Vanderbilt, the nation's third-ranked college basketball team, appeared to have its sixth victory without a defeat after building a 44-30 halftime lead over Florida Monday night at Gainesville, Fla.

But then Florida's highly regarded sophomore, 6-foot-10 Neal Walk, held scoreless in the first half, scored seven straight points midway in the second half to get the Gators back in contention and they went on to score a 74-72 upset. Walk finished with 17 points as Florida built its record to 4-1.

Four other sophomores also paced their teams to victories.

Mike Maloy scored 19 of his 23 points in the first half as sixth-ranked Davidson built up a 45-30 halftime lead and rolled to a 90-68 victory over Rice in a first-round game of the Charlotte Invitational. Temple beat Miami of Ohio 65-60 in the other first-round game.

Sixth Victory

Jim Collins scored all of his 13 points in a second-half burst to help unbeaten New Mexico State to its sixth victory, an 87-80 upset of Purdue at Lafayette, Ind.

Sparky Grober came off the bench and sank eight of 11 field goals—he scored 17 points—to spark Oklahoma State to a 67-65 victory over Washington at Stillwater, Okla. The winners scored on three free throws in the last 46 seconds, one coming on a technical foul for too many Washington timeouts.

Six-foot-11 Bob Lienhard poured in 29 points and led Georgia to a 94-80 victory over Furman at Athens, Ga.

All-American Elvin Hayes, a senior, struck a blow for upper classmen by scoring 35 points as second-ranked Houston breezed to a 103-65 home-court victory over Minnesota.

Handed First Loss

Tulsa, 6-1, handed Wyoming its first loss after five victories, 72-58 at Tulsa, Okla., and Indiana State, the No. 7 small college team upset first-ranked San Diego State 84-69 at Terre Haute, Ind.

In other games:

Yale beat Virginia 79-72 for the championship and Virginia Tech drubbed New York University for third place in the Virginia-VPI Invitational, St. Bonaventure remained undefeated with a 88-73 victory over Auburn and Seattle topped Rutgers 75-63 in first round games of the Tampa, Fla., Invitational.

Iowa edged Texas at El Paso 59-53 at home, Wake Forest scored an easy 108-79 home-court victory over William & Mary, visiting Northwestern took Missouri 79-68, Stanford lost at Kansas 72-54, Utah edged San Jose State 82-81 at home and Kentucky Wesleyan, the second-ranked small college team scored an easy 113-87 victory over Texas Wesleyan at home.

Winneconne Cagers Will Duel Reedsville

Final Pre-Holiday Little 9 Games Slated Tonight

	W	L	OA	DA
Winneconne	3	0	48.3	59.6

Hortonville	2	1	63.0	55.3

Wrightstown	1	2	67.3	69.0
Denmark	0	3	41.3	62.7
Freedom	0	3	46.3	67.0

A perfect (7-0) season record, including four straight wins in conference play, could serve to brighten any coach's Christmas going into the yuletide vacation period, and that's the kind of ptesent the Winneconne Wolves are hoping they can give to first-year mentor Ralph Larson with another victory tonight.

Winneconne, defending champion, will be looking to maintain its clean slate when it invades dangerous Reedsville for the key Little Nine Conference game. The Panthers are 2-1 in league play after dropping a home tilt to Brillion last week.

Elsewhere, Brillion duels Shiocton on the Chiefs' court in a battle between two of the five clubs tied for second place; Omro tests improved Wrightstown on the Tigers' floor; Hortonville visits Denmark; and Freedom journeys to Hilbert.

All the teams will get a respite from league play after tonight's action until Friday, Jan. 5. In non-league games in the interim, Stockbridge is at Denmark and Brillion plays its alumni Friday night; Freedom meets its alumni Dec. 28; Bear Creek travels to Shiocton Dec. 29; and Omro goes to North Fond du Lac Jan. 2.

Ties For Lead

A 33-point performance by Gary Johnson in Shiocton's 79-73 win over Omro last week has boosted the 6-2 senior into a tie for the individual scoring leadership. Johnson and Wrightstown's Tom Ribarchek are deadlocked with 73 points each, or an average of 27.7 points per contest.

Ribarchek, the top scorer a week ago, pumped in 29 to pace Wrightstown to a 78-69 conquest of Hilbert and retain a share of the top spot. Not far behind are Brillion's Russ Hansen, with 64 points, and Denmark's John Roberts with 60.

Shiocton, with a 75.0 average in three games, tops the circuit offensively, while Reedsville is second at 73.0. Winneconne is fourth.

In the defensive statistics, however, Winneconne has proved to be the stingiest club, allowing just 50 points per game. Hortonville is the only other quintet to hold its foes below 60 points with a 55.3 mark.

St. Mary Frosh Outlast FVL

MENASHA — Despite a strong second-half performance by Fox Valley Lutheran's Dennis Kasten, the Menasha St. Mary freshman cage team outlasted the Foxes, 46-42, in a game here Thursday.

Kasten scored 24 points — 22 on 11 of 16 shots from the floor in the second half. He led an FVL comeback that tied the score, at 40-40, before the Zephyrs pulled away. St. Mary scored all of its points on field goals, paced by Tim Wainscott's 12 points ries) I've got no worries," said Lombardi.

The coach, who would like to guide Green Bay to a third straight NFL crown, wouldn't admit that the game Saturday posed any special challenge for him.

All Difficult

"This is no more difficult to prepare for than any other game," he said. "They're all difficult to prepare for."

Kramer, discussing the Rams, said, "They've become so much better because they think they're better. The end result is that they are better."

"They begin to think they're unbeatable. I'm sure they feel that way now."

"If we can upset them early and break up their confidence a little, we might get them thinking about things again."

Anderson was sure of one thing about Saturday: "We've got to go get them, go after them."

Atlanta Writers Pick Aaron MVP

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hank Aaron, who led the National League in home runs and total bases and batted .307, today was named the Braves' Most Valuable Player in 1967 by the Atlanta chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

"It gives me a thrill, no matter how many trophies I win," Aaron said of his selection.

Aaron was the only Brave to hit more than 300. He led the league for the fourth time in home runs with 39, drove in 109 runs, scored 113 and for the seventh time paced the league in total bases with 343 on his homers, 37 doubles and three triples.

They've got a lot going for them. And, on the other hand, we have a lot going for us too."

Does It Cost More Here?

A reasonable question . . . for we do have a modern, well-equipped, efficiently staffed and adequately furnished office.

But did you know that we would have to charge exactly the same price for our insurance if we operated out of a "hole-in-the-wall" office, or from behind a stand-up booth with no office?

That's right!

The Insurance Commissioner sets the price. He won't let agents charge more, or less, regardless of their facilities, or lack of them.

Our facilities are better than most, only because we spend more money to provide you the best available anywhere.

Wouldn't you rather have the best at the same price? Of course you would. So come on in soon and see either Mary, Ina, Norm or Dobbie!

against Allen, trying to keep him, but the suit eventually was dropped.

Had 8-6 Record

Allen's Los Angeles club last year posted an 8-6 record, the first winning season here since 1958.

A big move this season was acquiring Roger Brown from Detroit to plug a hole left when defensive tackle Rosey Grier of the Fearsome Foursome front line was hurt.

Brown, a 290-pound veteran, turned in his best day against Baltimore as the Colts' quarterback John Unitas was thrown for losses seven times.

Given Game Ball

"We're getting from the offense what we had been getting from the defense," said Lundy. "That's the reason we've pushed up. It used to be that if a penalty put us at a first down and 25 situation, we figured we had no chance to make it. Now we know there is a good chance."

The Rams generally, from Allen on down, seem to feel that there'll be a "good chance" at Milwaukee

Meredith May Discard Mask Vs. Cleveland

'It Bothers Me,' Complains Dallas Signal-Caller

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Don Meredith doesn't want to be hampered by that mask for his broken nose Sunday when he leads Dallas against Cleveland for the Eastern Conference championship of the National Football League.

This is it for Dandy Don, who has fought injuries all season and has been unable to reach his old effectiveness as a result.

"This is the Eastern Conference championship game and we have enough pride that we want to repeat," said Meredith. "A lot of us think we haven't played the football of which we are capable and we want to make up for that. Our team is going to be ready to give until it hurts."

That's what he was talking about probably when he said he would try to convince his doctor and the trainer that he can play without the mask.

"It's Uncomfortable"

"It's uncomfortable and it bothers me," he said. "There's little chance of the injury happening again. It was a freak thing anyway. Who ever would have thought the bar on my helmet wouldn't prevent my being hit on the nose. The guy's hand slipped in between the bar and the face and did the damage. I doubt that it will ever happen again."

He also intimated that he wasn't going to worry about it happening again anyway. It would be worth it if he could do a good job before it happened.

Injury is nothing new to Meredith. He broke his leg playing junior high school football. He had his injury problems while at Southern Methodist. But he has really run into it playing with the Dallas Cowboys in pro football.

Contrary to appearances, these five demonstrative National Football League officials are not doing calisthenics. They were ruling on a play during Sunday's Packer-Steeler game in Green Bay. Identifiable Packers include Ray Nitschke (66), Herb Adderley (26) and Jim Weatherwax (73). (Post-Crescent News Service Photo)

Nancy Richey Ranked Second

Billie Jean King Still No. 1

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., the U.S. and Wimbledon champion, retained her No. 1 United States Lawn Tennis Association ranking.

Mrs. King also won the doubles and mixed-doubles competition at Wimbledon, giving an easy job to the USLTA's women's ranking committee, which announced its recommended ratings Monday.

Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., was second in the rankings. She won the National Clay Court title, but was sidelined for much of the season with an injury.

Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis was ranked third, replacing Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, who was dropped to fifth. Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., was rated fourth.

Carole Graebner of Beach-wood, Ohio, was ranked sixth; Stephanie DeFina Hollywood, Fla., was seventh; Kathy Hartner, Seal Beach, Calif., eighth; Lynn Abbes, Orinda, Calif., ninth, and Vicky Rogers, Rye, N.Y., 10th. Mrs. King and Miss Casals were the top-rated double combination.

Marciano KOs Jack Dempsey in Computer Fight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Rocky Marciano, retired undefeated heavyweight boxing champion, kayoed Jack Dempsey Monday night in the 13th round of a computer's version of what might have been if the ring titans had met.

The match was the finale of a 1-week "all-time heavyweight tournament" created by a Miami producing company and syndicated widely by radio stations.

Marciano, programmed at his best fighting weight of 184 pounds, decked the 191-pound Dempsey five times before Dempsey took the count at 2:28 of the 13th round.

Ring cards showed Dempsey winning four rounds, Marciano winning four and four rounds were even when the end came. Dempsey went down in the third round, twice in the eighth, once in the 10th and once in the 13th before the end came.

Bear-Pack Shrine Tilts Have Netted Near $500,000

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The director of the annual Tripoli Shrine football game here each August announced Saturday that the traditional clash between the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Bears has netted nearly a half million dollars.

Lee Ness said the money from the series, which began 18 years ago, is given to the Shrine's hospitals for crippled children.

Last August's game, which the Packers won 18-0, drew a series record crowd of more than 47,000 persons and provided $57,000, Ness said.

Frazier Gets Early Knockout For 19th Straight Victory

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Frazier's 19th straight professional victory was an early knockout as expected, but he says the main reason was the willingness of outwitted and outgunned Marion Conner to make a fight of it.

"He could probably have stayed longer if he tried to move," the unbeaten heavyweight contender said Monday night after putting Conner away at 1:40 of the third round. "But he came to work and to fight, just like I did."

Enough Punishment

Frazier, 210, of Philadelphia, concentrated on the body in the first two rounds, then switched his attack to the head in the third. He staggered the 180-pound Conner several times, finally catching him flush with a tremendous left hook to record his 17th knockout.

Conner went down, and although he struggled to his feet quickly, referee Billy Connolly decided he had had enough punishment and stopped the fight.

The 30-pound weight difference was obviously too much for Conner, a journeyman boxer who has campaigned quite a bit in New England although he lists his hometown as Canton, Ohio. Really no more than an overstuffed light heavyweight, he couldn't cope with Frazier and never landed a telling punch.

Frazier said his immediate plans call for some exhibitions, with probably no more fights until at least January as he awaits the outcome of the World Boxing Association's current heavyweight elimination tournament.

Already ranked as the No. 1 contender by Ring Magazine and No. 7 by the WBA, he decided to pass up the elimination tourney and instead plans to challenge the winner.

Indiana Climbs To Fifth Spot

UCLA Continues To Lead Poll; Houston Second

By BEN OLAN Associated Press Sports Writer North Carolina and Indiana registered the most notable gains in The Associated Press' major-college basketball poll today although powerful UCLA still dominates the voting.

The Tarheels knocked off two of last week's ranking teams, Kentucky and Princeton, and advanced three places to fourth. The setbacks dropped Princeton from the ratings altogether and sent Kentucky from the No. 4 to the No. 7 spot.

Indiana advanced from ninth to fifth after defeating Kansas State 89-83 and North Carolina State 101-97 in overtime.

Tennessee, now No. 9, and Bradley, No. 10, replaced Princeton and Louisville in the Top Ten.

UCLA received 30 first-place votes and two for second place for a total of 318 points in the balloting by a national panel of 32 sports writers and broadcasters. The Bruins, 3-0, were idle last week and meet Bradley in their next game Friday night.

The Houston Cougars held the No. 2 position. They defeated George Washington, Montana State and Brigham Young for a 7-0 mark. The Cougars accumulated 276 points, including 20 for two first-place votes. The balloting was on the usual basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc. taken before the game, and Allen and he each received 16 votes of the 46 cast.

Vince Lombardi of Green Bay got six votes. New York's Allie Sherman three, George Halas of Chicago and Blanton Collier of Cleveland two each and Tom Fears of New Orleans one.

Allen, who stirred up a big fuss when he resigned as one of Halas' assistant coaches to go west, started out with a last-place team, took the Rams to an 8-6 record last year and a brilliant 11-1-2 mark this season.

Much of his success stems from the numerous trades he has made. In his two years in Los Angeles, he has obtained from other teams such standouts as tackle Roger Brown, linebackers Maxie Baughan and Myron Pottios, ends Bernie Casey and Jack Snow and defensive backs Irv Cross and Claude Crabh.

Shula and the Colts had a tremendous season until the Ram game. Despite injuries to Ray Berry, Jimmy Orr, Bobby Boyd, Lenny Lyles and Alvin Haymond, the Colts remained undefeated through their first 13 games.

Shula was seeking his second conference crown in his five years in Baltimore. The Colts won the Western title in 1964 but lost the championship game to Cleveland.

Washkansky 'Very Serious'

Rejection of Heart Begins

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Louis Washkansky, the heart transplant patient, was in "very serious condition" today but doctors said they had not given up hope he will recover.

Dr. M. C. Botha reported a "very dramatic decrease" in Washkansky's white blood count in the past few hours. This aroused fears that his body is acting against its own tissue—lungs and white blood cells—the lungs and white blood cells—more than against the heart grafted into him Dec. 3.

Doctors planned a transfusion of normal white blood cells to combat this. The transfusion decision was taken on the recommendation of a French blood cancer specialist. This treatment has on occasion had "quite remarkable results," Botha said.

Repeat Treatment

Four donors gave blood for this purpose this morning and the treatment will probably be repeated in the afternoon, Botha said.

Earlier, it had been assumed that signs of a lung infection

discovered Saturday indicated pneumonia.

The doctors had strained faces, but said there was still reason for optimism that the 53-year-old Washkansky would survive.

Botha, one of the key figures in the heart operation, said a U.S. transplant surgeon, Dr. T. E. Starzl, had encountered similar rejection circumstances in kidney transplants.

Starzl, of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Denver, Colo., had found that most kidney transplant patients whose own tissue had been attacked by the body in much the same way had survived after being ill for about two weeks, he said.

But because this is the world's first human heart transplant and the doctors have no precedent to go by, they are handicapped in trying to recognize rejection when it occurs and in understanding other situations which arise, Botha pointed out.

'Rejection Likely'

Dr. Botha said although there were various possible explanations for the decrease in Washkansky's white blood count, "it seems likely a process of rejection is taking place."

But he added that the rejection process might be affecting "his own tissues such as the lungs and circulating white blood cells" rather than the heart which was transplanted into his body.

Ever since the operation, Washkansky's doctors had believed the greatest danger to him lay in the body's normal tendency to reject organs and other foreign bodies implanted in it. To curb this rejection, he had been given various drugs but they in turn tended to lower his body's normal resistance to infection.

Plane Crashes Into Market, Homes in Tucson; Four Killed

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Authorities said today four persons were killed when a U.S. Air Force jet plane crashed at the rear of a supermarket, spewing flames into a shopping center and demolishing two homes.

Flight Lt. Jack R. Hamilton of the Royal Canadian Air Force, the pilot, and Capt. Gary L. Hughes of the U.S. Air Force, the navigator, bailed out of the F40 plane soon after it took off from nearby Davis-Monthan Air Force Base with 17,000 pounds of fuel aboard.

The abandoned plane hit the roof of the supermarket and fell between the rear of the store and houses on an adjacent street, spewing flaming parts and blazing fuel into the shopping center and three homes.

The dead were:

Sherry Tilton, 19, trapped in a bedroom in one of the blazing houses.

Mrs. Glenn Bush, 34, a meat packer in the supermarket.

Mrs. James O. Palmer, 55, a shopper.

A 17-year-old Mexican-American girl, also a shopper, whose identity was withheld pending notification of her next of kin.

Routine Mission

The Air Force described the plane's flight as a routine training mission. The nature of the trouble which caused the two crew members to take to their parachutes was not disclosed. The men are stationed at Nellis Air Force Base, Nev.

Witnesses said the F4D jet flew on a direct course into the back of the store. Roswell Burk, 15, one of those near the scene, said it looked like one of the wings hit the corner of the building first.

One of the first to rush into the store and lead victims out was Ernest Sanchez, 26.

"I believe I saw the bodies of two children, three women and a man," he said.

Sanchez said he was able to aid several of the panic-stricken persons inside. "I was just inside the store when a woman ran in from outside. 'I think she had a child in the rear of the store. There was nothing but flames there. I grabbed her. When she struggled to get free I pushed her out of the store,' he said.

Warren Bobbington, who was shopping with his wife and child inside the market told how they escaped.

"I looked up and saw this huge ball of fire at the rear of the store," he said. "I grabbed my wife and child and ran for the front. Someone ran out with us."

One of the dead was identified as Sherry Tilton, 19, who lived in a house behind the market. Firemen said the girl was trapped in a back bedroom of the home, when the roof fell in on her.

An Air Force investigation is planned.

Compromise Likely for New Premier

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia's minister of education and science, Sen. John Grey Gorton, emerged today as a likely compromise successor to Prime Minister Harold Holt.

Holt, who disappeared while swimming in the surf off the southeast coast Sunday, is to be memorialized at a service in Melbourne Friday attended by President Johnson. The President's decision to make the 10,173-mile flight was an unusual gesture of respect for his staunch ally in the Vietnam war.

Deputy Prime Minister John McEwen, the leader of the Country party, was to be sworn in today as interim prime minister to serve until Holt's Liberal party, the larger member of the Liberal-Country party coalition, elects a new party leader and prime minister at a meeting Jan. 9.

Normally Federal Treasurer William McMahon, the deputy leader of the Liberals, would succeed Holt. But McEwen made clear to the Liberals that his party would withdraw from the coalition if McMahon was chosen, leaving the government three votes short of a majority.

Gorton, a 6-foot, 56-year-old farmer whose wife was born in the United States, conferred with other Liberal leaders today and told newsmen they had asked him to run for Holt's seat in the House of Representatives so he could take over the government reins. He said he had formally notified McMahon and the party's deputy parliamentary leader of his candidacy.

Wounded in War

Gorton holds a master of arts degree from Oxford and was a World War II pilot in Europe and the Pacific. He was badly wounded.

Rough seas and a strong southerly wind hampered the search today for the body of the 59-year-old prime minister, who disappeared off Portsea, a resort 37 miles south of Melbourne. Searchers said the body might never be found because of the strong ocean currents.

Holt's wife remained at the family's vacation home at Portsea with her three stepsons and their wives. The national radio network played music at the start of its programs today, followed by the reading of messages of sympathy to the Australian government and Mrs. Holt.

Toll Reaches 19 In Bridge Collapse

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP) — A flotilla of small craft began a 14-mile dragging operation on the Ohio River today in an attempt to find the bodies of those missing in the suspension bridge collapse.

Searchers have recovered 19 bodies since the Friday disaster. Civil Defense officials estimate there are still 42 missing.

Army officers in charge of the recovery estimate the dragging operation will take several days. They said small craft will drag "every inch" of the river bottom from the mangled wreckage of the collapsed Silver Bridge to the Gallipolis dam 14 miles downstream.

Won While in Vietnam

Captain Returns Home To Seat in Legislature

TRENTON, New Jersey (AP) — An Army captain whose father enlisted him in an election battle back home will be sworn into the New Jersey legislature next month.

Capt. Norman A. Doyle Jr., 28, will become Assemblyman Norman A. Doyle Jr. on Jan. 9, three days after his release from the service.

When the incumbent assemblyman decided not to seek reelection, the elder Doyle suggested the possibility of political office in a letter to his son, who was assigned to the Adjutant General's Corps in Vietnam.

"He was overjoyed," said

the father who served on the town council in Kearny for 22 years. "It's a wonderful stepping stone for an up-and-coming young lawyer."

The elder Doyle persuaded Hudson County Democratic leaders that his son, a graduate of Seton Hall University and New York University Law School, deserved a place on the ticket.

And while the son traveled throughout Vietnam as an Army trial officer, the father hit the campaign trail, making speeches, shaking hands and arranging for signs and billboards with his son's picture—and winning the Nov. 7 election by 15,000 votes.

Wilson, Thieu Also Will Fly To Australia

Reported Summit Conference Denied By White House

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson left Andrews Air Force Base at noon today on a 30-hour flight to Melbourne, Australia, to attend memorial services for Prime Minister Harold Holt.

Also scheduled to be in attendance at the Friday services are British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Prince Charles, South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu, Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos and South Korean President Chung Hee Park. Although the latter three represent nations that are deploying troops in Vietnam, a White House spokesman said there are no plans whatsoever for a summit conference on the war.

There was speculation, however, that President Johnson would go on from Australia to pay a visit to the troops in Vietnam.

An hour before departure time, assistant press secretary Tom Johnson told reporters at the White House:

"We would expect opportunities for informal bilateral conversations (in Australia) but there are no plans for any multilaterals whatsoever."

In other words Johnson expects to talk individually with leaders of countries that are Vietnam allies, and who will be gathering for the Friday memorial services in Melbourne. However, according to the statement, he does not intend to talk to them in a group setting.

Informal Basis

There had been speculation in Australia about a possible summit conference on an informal basis.

Johnson's flight plan called for going from nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., to Travis Air Force Base, Calif., for a refueling stop. Then he was going to Honolulu, again to refuel, and on to Australia with one additional refueling stop—probably in American Samoa.

The chief executive was expected to spend his first night in Australia in the capital city of Canberra, then go to Melbourne for the services and a possible overnight stay there.

Holt, 59, a close personal friend of Johnson and a staunch backer of firm U.S.-Australian ties, vanished Sunday while swimming and skin-diving in the ocean south of Melbourne.

Although Holt's body has not been recovered, the government has announced memorial services will be held Friday in Melbourne. Deputy Prime Minister John McEwen was sworn in today as interim prime minister.

To Meet McEwen

Johnson is expected to meet for talks with McEwen, who will serve in the interim capacity until the Liberal government, dominant force in Australia's coalition government, elects a new leader. McEwen is leader of the Country Party. He is expected to serve a few weeks at most.

It is presumed in Washington Johnson will discuss with Liber-

Goes to City Council

New London Fire Code Is Recommended for Adoption

NEW LONDON — The city plan commission unanimously recommended city council adoption of a fire prevention code at a special meeting Monday night. The proposed code is one of the few remaining parts of the city's workable program which must be approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) before the city can receive further federal approval on such projects as the proposed low-rent housing for elderly.

The fire ordinance, which should be passed by the council tonight, is the same as the state industrial commission fire prevention code covering all types of potentially flammable materials.

Parts of the proposed code are already in effect through the city's burning ordinance.

Many Migrant Areas Do Not Meet State Revised Camp Code

MADISON — Many of the Wisconsin migrant labor camps under the jurisdiction of the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations do not comply with requirements of the state's revised migrant labor camp code, according to a report made public here.

The report was submitted to canners, freezers and others at a recent conference, and employers of migrant labor were informed that if they operate camps and wish to recruit workers before removing non-complying conditions, they may do so by filing an affidavit with state authorities asking for an extension until May 1 next year to correct conditions.

Funds Denied for 'Pioneer Village'

Forest Junction Store Periled

CHILTON — Hopes of saving a quaint historical store complex at Forest Junction faded early Sunday when the State Assembly defeated a bill to appropriate $3,750 in matching funds to purchase the property.

Calumet County supervisors at their Dec. 12 meeting had appropriated $3,750, contingent on a similar state appropriation for the F. G. Haese property.

State Sen. Robert Warren, R-Green Bay, and Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, had introduced Joint Bill 569. The Senate passed the bill.

Hephner said that an effort to revive the bill through suspension of the rules — requiring a two-thirds vote — failed and the Assembly adjourned at 4 a.m. Sunday.

He added that if a special session is called and more than one topic can be introduced, the matching appropriation request again will be entered. The Assembly is not scheduled to meet in 1968.

The total value of the Haese property is estimated at $15,000 but the Robert Haese heirs — his widow, daughter and sister — had offered to donate half this value.

If the state would have provided money, the State Historical Society would have assumed ownership of the property and would have been responsible for all maintenance and upkeep.

Director Praises

The Haese property has been visited by the director of the State Historical Society, Raymond S. Sivesend. He wrote a letter to Ed Rusch, Town of Brillion supervisor, where the Haese property is located, saying that "this is truly one of the most exceptional historic sites I have seen in this or any state where such a complete picture of the past remains intact. I was so glad to see so much determination on the local scene to make sure this complex will be preserved." He also stated that it would be a "terrible loss" to the area if it were not saved.

Sivesend, in a letter to Hephner, stated much the same thing and added that he felt the State of Wisconsin could well afford to make an appropriation to help the people of Forest Junction with this project, as the legislature has previously supported others.

Has 12 Buildings

The Haese property, often called "The Pioneer Village," is intact and operated until Dec. 2. It has 12 buildings which house a variety of businesses and one dwelling.

The late F. G. Haese, founded the business 82 years ago. He sold lumber, coal, roofing, feed,

Waupaca Plans For Citizens' Panel Meeting

Advisory Committee To Study Building Needs, Curriculum

WAUPACA — Scheduling a meeting with the special citizens advisory committee on curriculum and school building will be discussed by the board of education at 7:30 p.m. today.

The committee was suggested by the board of education at a special meeting Dec. 7, but members have not yet been named.

It will assist the school board and administration in making a study of the complete educational system of the district and report its findings to the school board. The committee will also recommend changes in curriculum and building needs.

After a building program is determined, the committee will bring the facts of the program before the general public.

More than 100 letters were mailed to district residents who were suggested as possible members. Others interested in serving were asked to contact Mrs. Ward Fonstad, board clerk.

Waupaca Sheriff Warns Taverns of New Year's Hours

WAUPACA — Sheriff William Mork has issued a reminder to Waupaca County tavern owners that state law requires bars to be closed between 3 and 6 a.m. on New Year's Day, Jan. 1.

Beer bars must close at 1 a.m., Jan. 1, Mork said. The local sheriff's department will enforce the state closing, he added.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — More than $279,000 was trimmed from a $410,000 expansion request for the Grand Army Home at King Monday as the State Department of Veterans Affairs was directed to close the aging Marston Hall at the institution.

The action came as department director John Moses asked the state board on government operations for funds to expand the staff of the facility to fill positions in new nursing care buildings which are expected to be opened ahead of schedule.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles had recommended to the special legislative emergency funding board that Marston Hall, built in 1900, be permanently closed.

"I feel that it is more important to assure the safety of the people than to merely provide them with shelter," he remarked in a written presentation to the board.

Fears Waiting List

Moses had maintained that unless the wooden frame building was kept in operation and used to house members of the army home, a waiting list of over 70 persons would develop during the coming year and a half.

Fire dangers in the wooden building are too great, the legislative board agreed with Knowles, to allow the veterans department to continue operating it as a part of the home.

The board told Moses to ease the building out of the home operations by next May, when the first of the nursing care buildings will come into use, by slowing enrollment of new residents.

Attrition through deaths and dismissals from the home will empty Marston Hall, a 76-bed facility, by that time, reported Moses, who argued against the recommendation.

The board agreed with Startling and Delighting passers-by, these three camels and wise men stand in the yard of St. Bartholomew Lutheran Church, Brillion. Made of paper-mache, they had been discarded from a commercial display in Illinois and transported here in mid-summer. Parishioners donated time and materials to have them ready for this Christmas season. (Coenen Photo)

Enhance Nativity Scene

3 Wise Men Find Brillion

BRILLION — The simplicity, beauty and solemn religious tone of three stately wisemen seated on camels strolling easterly across a church yard here has a story behind it that truly makes the Christmas display more meaningful.

It all began in August when the Rev. T. R. Bartell, pastor of St. Bartholomew Lutheran Church here, went to Illinois to pick up the life-size weather-worn statues that had been discarded from a commercial display. Autos honked approving greetings and occupants waved and smiled as they passed the not-too-familiar sight of camels and wisemen on an open trailer in mid-summer!

The Rev. Bartell stopped at a service station on Milwaukee's outskirts and after purchasing gasoline he jokingly asked the attendant if he would "water the camels, too." Milwaukee's race riots were in progress at the time and no doubt the incident added a flash of jest to the attendant's tension - shrouded day.

Passers-by did a double-take the next morning when they saw three camels in the parsonage garage. The figures were stored in a barn owned by Earl Pitzner until November. At that time Winfred Riemer, Hubert Maertz, Roland Radtke and Lloyd Zeamer began to ready the display.

Patch repairs on the white fiber-glassing process and then a complete enamel painting. Many hours were spent by the group before the wisemen and camels were ready for display.

One parishioner noted that the current price of three similar units is over $550 per camel with rider. "Parish funds paid the $7.50 rental fee for a trailer to transport the display. All the labor and materials were donated," he noted.

Riemer's daughter, Nancy, wisemen. A three-dimensional riveted aluminum star, fashioned by Hubert Maertz, is mounted high on the pole in front of the display.

Camels in Shop

At one time during the repair of the display the camels were taken to a local industry's paint shop for a little touch-up. On Sunday, as a guard made his rounds of the deserted plant, he was startled to see the "animals" - a little further on he was even more startled to see a

Iola Woman Dies of Traffic Crash Injuries

The state's 1968 traffic death toll stood at 1,089 today following the deaths of two Milwaukee women and a Waupaca County woman from injuries received earlier this month.

The figure is one more than on this date one year ago, when the state was moving toward an all-time traffic death toll record of 1,127.

Mrs. Myron Johnson, 60, Iola, died Sunday in a Stevens Point hospital from injuries she received in a two-car collision on U.S. 51, about 10 miles north of Stevens Point, on Dec. 9.

Slippery Roads

The collision occurred when the auto she was riding in, driven by Lois Rasmussen, 19, of Iola, collided with another auto driven by Robert Crotteau, 44, of Wisconsin Rapids.

The mishap occurred on snow-packed and slippery road conditions, Portage County authorities said. Mrs. Johnson's husband, Myron, 59, and the only passenger in Crotteau's auto, his wife Marie, 42, were also injured in the collision.

Hit by Car

Mrs. Mildred Wasserman, 64, Milwaukee, died Monday of injuries received Dec. 13 when she was struck by a car while she was walking along a city street.

Mrs. Mary Malone, 69, Milwaukee, collapsed and died in her home Sunday of injuries suffered on Dec. 10 when a car struck her at a Milwaukee intersection.

Air Freight Flights Set for Clintonville

New Service Will Make Chicago Run Six Days a Week

CLINTONVILLE — Air freight shipments are expected to increase from the Clintonville Municipal Airport with the inauguration Monday of a new service by Midstate Air Com-muter Air-Van Service.

Previously, what freight ship-ments could be accommodated on the regular scheduled pas-senger service were limited to size and quantity.

Six packages weighing a total of 247 pounds were shipped from here Monday night. One package originated at Manawa and was destined for New York, while the others were being sent to locations in Maine, Colorado, Michigan, Indiana and South Dakota.

During October, 8,296 pounds of freight were shipped and 1,852 received for a total of 10,148 pounds. During Novem-ber, 4,501 pounds of freight were shipped and 2,116 pounds re-ceived for a total of 6,617 pounds.

The new service schedule includes Marshfield, Wisconsin Rapids, Clintonville, Fond du Lac, Chicago, and return. The plane arrives here at 6 p.m. bound for Chicago and arrives here on its return at 11:40 p.m., Monday through Friday.

A welcome was extended by Miller. The aims, purposes and history of the organization were given by Prey. The procedure for applying for membership was told by Miss Hansen.

Others participating in the program were Kathy Maltbey with piano selections; Marcia Beverniz, a monologue; vocal numbers by an octet, and the closing was given by Mary Beth Steinbach.

Refreshments followed with Jacie Nordwig and Carol Stev-enson serving the punch.

WAUPACA — Robert S. Berger, 22, 724 Berlin St., was fined $33.50 in Municipal Justice Court Monday after he pleaded guilty of battery.

Only CW Clash Manawa '5' Tangles With Weyauwega

Weyauwega	2	2	63.8	65.5

Improving Manawa, which upset Waupaca in its last outing and has reached the .500 mark in Central Wisconsin Conference play, gets a chance to climb into third place tie with the Comets tonight if it can beat winless Weyauwega on the Indi-ans' court.

The contest is the only league game scheduled for the week in the CW. In non-league affairs, however, Iola-Scandinavia will try to keep on target at Ro-sholt; Marion plays host to Tigerton; and Amherst, still searching for any kind of a win, journeys to Birnamwood.

All the teams in the league will rest after tonight until three conference skirmishes Jan. 5, with one exception. Weyauwega will entertain Me-nasha St. Mary Dec. 29.

Balanced scoring and hot free-throw shooting gave Manawa its 73-70 win over Waupaca last week Bob Passehl had his biggest night of the conference season with 26 points for the Wolves, and mates Randy Hass and Doug Langman hit 15 and 14 markers each. The winners canned 19 of 23 free throws.

The victory brought Florian Gerl's charges back to an even (2-2) record in the league after Manawa had dropped its first two outings.

Weyauwega can be tough on its own floor, but the Indians may still be reeling after suffer-ing a 70-47 whipping from Iola-Scandinavia last week. The In-dians couldn't stop the T-Birds' 1-2 punch of Chuck Koehler and Wayne Skowen, who hit 45 points between them, two less than 'Wega's team output.

Koehler fired in 30 points for his best effort in league play to date, and now holds a com-manding 24-point bulge over his nearest rival in the scoring race. Mike Sannes, of Waupaca, is still second with 98 points following a 20-point production against Manawa.

Downtown Area Selected for New Post Office Building

Site Is Bounded by Division, Packard and Franklin Streets

The U.S. Post Office Department today announced it has obtained options on a site — bounded by Division, Packard and Franklin streets — for a new Appleton Post Office.

R. W. Van Sickle, Milwaukee, real estate officer for the regional office of the postal department in Minneapolis, notified Mayor George Buckley.

(A story in The Sunday Post-Crescent disclosed that a site had been selected for the new local postal facility and would be announced within a few days.)

Van Sickle informed the mayor or the Post Office Department was considering the new building project, replacing the existing structure erected at Superior and Washington streets in 1937.

Private Construction

He explained to Buckley the proposed new building would not be owned by the government, but would be constructed to department specifications by a private developer and then leased to the government.

Assignable options have been obtained on a site measuring 531 feet on Division Street, 586 feet fronting on Packard Street and 333 feet fronting on Franklin Street.

Van Sickle asked Buckley to advise the Postal Department if the proposed use of the property would have any conflict with local, state or federal planned projects, zoning, planning or anything of a restrictive type.

No Objections

Buckley said he had been aware the site was being considered and felt there were no objections.

City Planner Walter Rasmussen has been working closely with postal officials in laying the groundwork for options, land acquisition and eventual construction.

Buckley said he would immediately answer Van Sickle's letter.

"I think everyone is happy to hear the news," Buckley said. "We have long needed a new post office."

Town of Dale Okays Record Expenditures

$139,962 Budget Up $9.27 Without School Levies

DALE — A $139,962 budget calling for a tax rate boost of $9.27 excluding increases for school purposes has been adopted by the town board.

The levy is for state, county, school and vocational school purposes, there is no assessment for town operation.

The town's rate will vary as it is attached to two school districts. Those attached to the Hortonville district will pay $42.43 per $1,000 off assessed value for school purposes, up $3.75, and those in the New London district will pay $38.42, up $5.52.

The budget includes:

- $1,263 for state purposes.
- $28,689 for county purposes.
- $103,170 for combined school district purposes.
- $6,810 for vocational school purposes.

State and county expenditures will require $11.33 per $1,000 assessed value, up $1.60 and the vocational school will require $6.22 for each district. This coupled with the school district rates will give the total tax rate.

Residents in the Hortonville district will pay $56.38 and New London district residents will have a tax rate of $52.37.

A state tax credit of $3,711 has been received and will be credited to the tax rate.

Liquor Law Violators Arrested by Telephone

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Alcoholic Beverage Control agents are rounding up liquor law violators in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County by telephone instead of raids.

Twenty-three persons were telephoned last week and told that warrants for their arrest had been signed, charging them with selling untaxed liquor.

"Ten of them have already come down and posted bond," said ABC Agent Henry Severs. "This method saves us time and equipment, and if some don't show up, we'll go get them."

Vandals Hit Cars on West Side of City

Seven Westside Appleton residents reported to police Sunday that their cars had been entered late Saturday night or early Sunday.

Fred Jentz, 1200 W. Fourth St., said his trunk was opened, probably with keys taken from the car which was in the garage. The glove compartment also was rifled.

James Oates, 519 S. Mueller St., reported the accelerator pedal was taken and the glove compartment rifled in his 1964 auto.

Dale Maxam, 509½ S. Mueller St., said that vandalism to his auto included a broken radio antenna and mirror and a rifled glove compartment. The accelerator pedal also was torn off.

A pickup truck parked at the address also was vandalized. Police said a tarpaulin covering the back of the truck was ripped and a radio was stolen.

Robert Verbrick, 509 S. Mueller St., said his car was parked in the garage when the antenna was torn off. A Christmas tree in Verbrick's garage also was ripped apart.

Other vandalism, which included broken antennas and rifled glove compartments, was reported by Jerry Hussin, 530 S. Fairview St.; James Piette, 1128 W. Fourth St.; and John Karweick, 1210 W. Fourth St.

State's Rights vs. One-Man, One-Vote

Despite the pressures of trying to recess in time for Christmas, the State Senate apparently wanted to live up to its reputation of being the more deliberative body of the Legislature's two houses.

One day during its December session, the Senate debated a proposal calling for the United States to change its policy for Rhodesia. One of the senators confessed he wasn't quite sure where Rhodesia was or what was in dispute about American policy. Then, there was the tired resolution calling for a federal constitutional convention to write an amendment to the Constitution which would overturn the 1964 Supreme Court ruling for "one man one vote" representation for both houses of state legislatures.

This resolution had been knocking around the Senate for some time. One day when a network television crew came to town, the resolution was called up for debate for its benefit. Senators were advised to wear blue shirts. Then last week, state business was set aside, and the Senate approved the resolution 16 to 13.

The greatest puzzle in all this is why it should be before the Wisconsin Senate in the first place. When the Wisconsin Constitution was written in 1848, it was decided and it was ratified by the people that both houses of the Legislature would represent population totals rather than having one house represent area as was the case in most other states.

Wisconsin, of course, has had times when reapportionment did not keep up with population. But the requirement remained and was confirmed when a last gasp effort by the "aracrats" lost a constitutional referendum in the 1950s. Since then, Wisconsin has become a leader among the states in declaring that population representation also applies to its county boards, one of the most meaningful governmental reforms of recent times.

Sen. Robert Knowles, who piloted the resolution through the Senate, has explained that it is really only something of a favor to other states and that the amendment, if it ever should become part of the Constitution, probably never would be used in Wisconsin. He says it is an issue of state's rights. The question then is should states have the right to take away the Supreme Court-defined right of all citizens to have equal representation in both houses of their legislatures.

In Wisconsin, the answer has been no. The same answer should be true in the other states.

It was difficult to understand why Sen. Robert Warren of Green Bay, who represents a district which will continue to benefit from the rules of population reapportionment, joined in the Senate effort. He said it is the only way to overturn "a totally unpopular decision by the Supreme Court," since the normal methods for starting an amendment in Congress have failed.

But where is the decision unpopular? It is not unpopular in Wisconsin. It is not unpopular in Sen. Warren's district. It is unpopular in some statehouses where the unfair political control of decades has been shaken by the directive for fair representation.

Thirty-two of the states have now passed some form of resolution asking for a constitutional convention. Two more are needed to reach the total required for such a call. But there is much confusion ahead.

Could such a convention make a wholesale attack on the Constitution, in the field of civil rights guarantees, for example? Can legislatures which are not properly apportioned ask for such a convention in the first place?

The Assembly wisely went home without taking up the Senate resolution. Wisconsin should not become a part of trying to continue unfair representation of other states, particularly since the people of Wisconsin have made it clear that, since 1848, they have agreed with what the Supreme Court said in 1964.

New London Moves on Housing for Elderly

Congratulations to New London's Housing Authority for moving ahead on a program to provide low rental public housing for senior citizens in the community.

Indeed, New London and several other cities in the region have been showing up their "big city cousins" when it comes to taking advantage of programs which are available under local, state and federal sponsorship to provide adequate housing for older persons on fixed incomes.

The New London story is an example of how progress can be made in assisting the elderly once a municipal body decides to put its shoulder to the wheel. A site and developer has been selected by the New London Housing Authority pending final approval of the city's application for a development and reservation (money) grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Proposals had been submitted to the Housing Authority by five developers which listed projects ranging from a 60 to 120-unit, high-rise building with adequate recreation and work areas. There has been informal word from HUD that a 60-unit dwelling represents the most likely development at this time.

New London residents can be proud of their city officials and Housing Authority for expediting a constructive project which will benefit elderly by filling a low rental housing void.

The Government of Greece

King Constantine's short-lived effort to oust the military junta which seized control of Greece last April may actually succeed in the long run in doing away with the monarchy in Greece and reclaiming a representative form of government. For, despite his failure and the regrettable Greek apathy to the military rule, the revolt did demonstrate some amount of rebellion.

Last spring the young king was obviously caught by surprise by the military coup which ended months of wrangling between advocates of a limited monarchy and a far more left-wing democratic regime. Unhappy about it, the king's revolt was intended to demonstrate his ability to find a sizeable Greek following and restore representative government with the king nevertheless in a position of influence if not power. It will be weeks before what actually happened is revealed, what mistakes were made and what assumptions were in error.

Looking Backward
Sunday Southbound Train Needed

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 28, 1867
The Chicago & North Western Railway Company would confer a great favor on the traveling public if they would have the Sunday evening train start from Green Bay instead of Oshkosh
The travel to Appleton alone would warrant the change asked for. The stage lines to the Upper Wolf and Upper Wisconsin usually arrive in time for the evening train south. Practically there is now no evening train from Green Bay, Appleton, Menasha and Neenah for Chicago, from Friday to Monday.
The travel north of Oshkosh is much greater this winter than ever before; and, judging from the past, we cannot doubt the disposition of the managers of the C. & N. W. R'y to afford increased facilities for travel when the necessity is therefore demonstrated.

On the Right
Did Nixon Hurt Himself With Right Wing by Endorsing Javits?

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.
A year ago Mr. Richard Nixon, reminiscing with a visitor, confessed that he had come by a maxim rather late in life which seems to be obvious, namely that a Republican cannot win with the support of the right wing only, but that neither can he win without the support of his right wing. In 1960 Nixon needed a mere handful of extra votes, whether left or right, to win the election. It wasn't that loss that hurt him professionally — most practiced historian, can remember where General Eisenhower stood on matters in general that separated the right from the left? But every now and again there is no way out as when, a week ago, Richard Nixon found himself all alone, in front of a microphone, the spotlight fixed remorselessly on him, at a testimonial dinner to, of all people, Jacob Javits, senior senator from New York, the man about whom the late George Sokolsky once remarked that he has about as much business in the Republican Party as Leon Trotsky.
What did Nixon do? Examine the range of choices. To begin with, there he was — he had accepted the invitation. What to do now? Well, he might have fainted. But there are dangers in that too — the voters might reason that a President Nixon might face a crisis as serious in the course of his stay in the White House as finding something pleasant to say about Senator Javits, and it would hardly do to faint when such crises occur. Well, the next alternative would have been to say something more or less neutral about the state of the world, and sit down. But that would have offended the liberals. They wanted a little action. The third alternative was to give it to them, which Mr. Nixon did. He spoke favorably of Senator Javits in a general sort of a way. And then he added a specific piece of information, most dreadfully upsetting to New York's conservatives, that if a primary fight developed he would support Mr. Javits. "CONSERVATIVES 'STARTLED' BY NIXON'S BACKING JAVITS" is the headline in the New York Times.
In fairness to Mr. Nixon, it should be observed that although indeed the tradition is for senior party members to stay out of primary fights, New York's Conservative Party, which is the main philanthropic force behind the forthcoming challenge to Mr. Javits from within the Republican Party, is not itself intending to play by the rules which it desires Mr. Nixon to play by. Because the conservatives intend not merely to throw their support behind the man who challenges Mr. Javits in the Republican primary. They intend to continue to support that man even after he is beaten by Mr. Javits, if indeed he is which of course is likely. It is one thing to say to Mr. Nixon: look, stay out of a contest, and we'll see who wins; if Javits wins, we'll step aside. The conservatives have no intention whatever of stepping aside, and indeed there is no reason why the conservatives should. It being their function to present the voters with a choice at election-time; and there is no choice at all when it comes to Javits against a typical New York Democrat.
On the other hand, Mr. Nixon needn't really have got into the matter of the primary. Perhaps Mr. Javits, or friends of Mr. Javits, approached Nixon ahead of time, reasoning that he could do more than any other New Yorker to derail the conservatives. It seems more likely that Mr. Nixon was directly asked to make that observation, than that he proffered it spontaneously. Because he has indeed hurt himself with the conservatives. And the contest in New York State may very well be crucial during the 1968 elections. Indeed the Civil Service Leader ("America's largest weekly for public employees," November 28) points out that the Conservatives have already acquired the balance of power in many districts, and makes a startling prediction: "The Party's roots are now so deep that it could very well be the deciding factor in which column the State's 43 electoral votes are cast in 1968." At this point Mr. Nixon needs liberal support more than he needs conservative support; but to quote a seasoned politician who learned the lesson late, he needs conservative support too.

Wisconsin Report
Landowners' Outcry
Dooms Speed-Up in Outdoor Land Buying

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — The careful listener at the hearings last week inspired by the commotion caused by the charges of Assemblyman McKay against the landbuying practices of the State Conservation Department finds it difficult to avoid the conclusion that some of the agency's field men have acted in a heavy-handed manner with some of the persons whose lands they believe should be turned over to the state for public recreational use.
The record now shows some curiously high priced purchases in some instances, and some strangely low offers — in the light of subsequent condemnation awards — in others.
Perhaps none of this can be laid at the door of the commission itself. It is necessarily the victim of the judgment or lack thereof of scores of its agents in the field, who transmit their proposals and their activities reports through channels. Only occasionally, when a major doubt arises does the commission make personal inspections and appraisals.
In point of fact, several of the commissioners who were being examined by the Senate Conservation Committee on the McKay complaints of last week appeared surprised at what they were hearing from some of the aggrieved and indignant landowners who had dealings with department subordinates in the field.
CHANGES COMING
It now appears virtually certain that the standing committees on conservation of both houses, which will continue to function during the legislative interim, will review the land procedures of the department at length, and will very likely recommend some modifications. When bus loads of angry plain citizens come to Madison for long evening meetings twice in a week, the hint about political repercussions in the hinterlands is plain enough to the most inattentive politician.
The tragedy, from the view point of those earnest men and women within and outside the conservation administration who desire an even more rapid public recreation land buying program, is that the angry episode inspired by Assembly Majority Leader McKay will almost certainly doom the proposals of the recent ORAP task force which asked for an even more rapid acceleration of such work. Legislators may have other reasons for their hesitation about that report, including the delicate matter of financing what it proposes. But now they have an excuse, if they want to use it.

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
The parade of witnesses from Waushara County, owning farms and other properties within the generous boundaries of the prospectively vast Kettle Moraine State Forest, told some fright and distress as department agents called upon them, and being turned down in their offers to purchase, used the club of the condemnation law as a means of pressure.
Such complaints, repeated elsewhere in the state, plus some disturbing evidence about prices paid elsewhere in the state where public land ownership ratios are already high, will almost surely cause the Legislature to be cautious if not altogether indifferent to the pending proposal to accelerate the land acquisition program to the point of doubling it.
MIGHT MODIFY POWERS
It may also bring about legislative action to modify the powers of the department or to write new rules about procedure in bargaining and dealing with private landowners.
The state officials involved have a side of the story to tell, of course. In fairness, it must be noted that when the Legislature six years ago in the so-called "ORAP" program decided that the state needs more outdoors recreational opportunity and that it could best be assured through state ownership of desirable tracts and especially where most of the residents of Wisconsin live, which is in southeastern Wisconsin, it also gave the Con-

Strictly Personal
Quantities, Values
Judged Differently

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
In his early book, "Meditations on Quixote," that great Spanish thinker, Ortega y Gasset, made an observation I have never seen elsewhere — an observation that has been increasingly useful to me over the years.
"The minimum is the measuring unit in the realm of quantity," he wrote, "but in the realm of values, the highest values are the measuring unit."
This is why what is called "Utopianism" and "idealism" by most people is the most practical and necessary of viewpoints to maintain at all times. Once we stop measuring values by their highest possibility, then our standards become lower and lower, and we are soon measuring values as we do quantity — by the inch and the second, by the smallest unit that is convenient, rather than by the largest.
Once we surrender the ideal of the first-rate man in public life, for instance, we accept the second-rate as the standard; then it is easy to go to the third and fourth-rate — until, finally, we have utterly lost sight of the ideal of the public man, and are merely choosing between "lesser evils." If we blind ourselves to ultimate values, are we not setting up the one-eyed man as king?
This profoundly true remark calls for a little meditation on Ortega, in measuring distance, we begin with the inch, not the yard or the mile. In measuring time, we begin with the second, not the hour or the day. Quantities are compared in relation to their smallest unit, to determine what shall really be called "large" or "long" or "heavy," or any other quantitative judgment.
But when we are dealing with values, we use the highest value as the measuring unit. All diamonds are judged by what a perfect stone would be; heroism is measured by the most heroic act we have known; an actor's ability is gauged by comparison with the greatest actor we have seen. "Things of this sort," Ortega says, "can only be correctly evaluated by comparing them with the most valuable."
And what is the practical importance of this distinction between ways of measuring quantity and value? It is this: In the realm of values, if the really topmost values are sup-

Neither Republican, Democrat Politicians Know They Need 'Ticket-Splitters'

By GAYLORD SHAW
WASHINGTON (AP) — More and more Americans are shunning party labels and identifying themselves as political independents—a development that could profoundly affect the 1968 election campaigns.

Surveys show nearly one-third of the nation's adults—some 36 million potential voters—no longer consider themselves Democrats or Republicans. They instead call themselves independents.

Communism of U.N. President Not Obvious

Corneliu Manescu Of Romania Rules Without Politics

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Corneliu Manescu has submerged himself so thoroughly in his job that delegates tend to forget he is the first Communist to become president of the U.N. General Assembly.

But the greeting "Comrade President" often heard from Soviet-bloc speakers addressing the chair, reminds members of the Romanian foreign minister's background. Some insist that the salutation makes him wince.

As the 22nd assembly draws to a close, observers are hard put to recall any instance when Manescu's background showed in the debates.

"He was so guarded in his wording that it was impossible to tell what he thought about any issue," said a veteran diplomat.

Likes Shakespeare
In appearance, the 51-year-old diplomat with the silver hair and youthful face could easily pass as a product of the U.S. State Department or British Foreign Office. This impression is strengthened by his fondness for Shakespeare and Walt Whitman.

When East-West issues came up for debate in the assembly, Manescu managed to avoid making any rulings that could be considered partisan.

The only sign involved Nationalist China, which is viewed by the Communist bloc as a usurper occupying Peking's rightful seat in the United Nations. The Formosa representative addressed the assembly three times during the session, and every time Manescu was absent, a vice president replacing him on the rostrum.

"He always happened to have an appointment," said a West European diplomat.

Resist Soviets
On most problems, Romania has resisted Soviet domination for more than five years. That was one of the reasons Western powers dropped their longstanding opposition to letting an East European representative have the assembly presidency.

Manescu made it apparent that he intended to steer an independent course when he made his bid for the post early this year.

As his country's foreign minister, he played an important role in setting up relations between Romania and West Germany, a move which dismayed some Communist governments. During the Middle East crisis last summer, Manescu broke with the Soviet bloc which was condemning Israel. He called for direct Arab-Israeli negotiations. That almost cost him the Arab vote in the presidency race.

Like his predecessors, Manescu has given weekly luncheons for members of the press corps. Unlike the others, he has let his remarks go on the record, providing some interesting quotes on lively issues. He managed to sidestep questions that might involve him in a political dispute.

the electorate has not gone unnoticed among professional politicians, whose livelihood depends on their ability to chart accurately the moods of the voters.

Examine Issues

The pros are shaping campaigns that will appeal to this large bloc of independents—or "ticket splitters," as some strategists call them.

These "ticket splitters" tend to be younger, well-educated, higher-paid professional or white-collar workers who closely examine candidates and issues before deciding how to vote.

The 1968 campaigns—national as well as state—may see the use of more sophisticated techniques. Eye- or ear-catching slogans and jingles may be downplayed in favor of in-depth explanations of candidates' qualifications and the issues.

The politicians' interest in the independent voters has been heightened by research indicating the "ticket splitters" almost always end up voting for the winning candidate. "We just haven't found them voting for a losing candidate," one tactician said.

More Time, Money
Some political managers have even charted which areas—usually middle- or upper-class suburbs—have the highest number of "ticket splitters." Their candidates spend more time and money in these areas.

Over the past quarter-century, Dr. George H. Gallup has documented the trend toward voter independence. Periodically since 1940, his American Institute of Public Opinion has included this question in its surveys: "In politics today, do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat or independent?"

In a survey this fall, 31 per cent of those interviewed replied independent, 27 per cent Republican and 42 per cent Democrat. Six months earlier, the breakdown was 27 per cent independent, 27 per cent Republican and 46 per cent Democrat.

In 1964, the last presidential election year, 22 per cent of adults interviewed considered themselves independents, 25 per cent Republicans and 53 per cent Democrats. In 1950, the figures stood at 22 per cent independent, 33 per cent Republican and 45 per cent Democrat. In 1940, it was 20 per cent independent, 38 per cent Republican and 42 per cent Democrat.

"Highest Ever"
The 31 per cent figure reported this fall is the highest "for independents we've ever had," Gallup recently told an interviewer. "You might say on this basis that the Republican Party is a third party" since, for the first time since 1940, the number of persons calling themselves Republicans falls below the number calling themselves independents.

"Republicans polling their full strength would be hopelessly defeated," Gallup added. "They've got to get a considerable number of independents to get over that 50 per cent line."

Store Robbed
Via Telephone
SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — A telephone-directed supermarket robbery produced $5,000 for a police gunman and a sports car driving accomplice.

Market manager Richard Hathcock, 52, said he let into his home Monday a man who claimed he had car trouble. The man pulled an automatic pistol and ordered Hathcock to telephone instructions to assistant manager Anthony Porcillo, 35, at the store two miles away. As ordered, he put $5,000 in a paper bag and delivered it to a blue sports car idling outside.

As the car sped away, the man at Hathcock's home ripped the telephone cord from the wall and left. "He was very polite," Hathcock told police.

Students to Fast Before Meeting

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — Many students will be going hungry this winter at William Jewell College. They want it that way. They're demonstrating with fasts to call attention to the problem of world food supplies. More than 90 have volunteered to stage an unbroken chain of fasts leading up to a population conference planned for March 29 in Kansas City. Plans call for as many as three students at a time going without solid food for 24-hour periods.

State Law Requires Removal of Weeds Cut In Navigable Waters

MADISON — Cutting weeds in the navigable waters of Wisconsin without removing them has been declared a nuisance in a newly-enacted state law, punishable by fines of up to $100 or imprisonment up to three months, or both. Enforcement of the new law has been delegated to the state conservation department and its field officers. The Legislature was told during public hearings by irate riparian owners that increasing activity with mechanical weed cutting apparatus is cluttering up their shores.

The Kinsmen of Jesus — II

The Critical Clan in Nazareth

Editor's Note—Jesus lived in the midst of a warm and protective family. Although compassionate, the relatives in Nazareth were sometimes puzzled by him, sometimes skeptical and sometimes critical. The following is the second in a five-part Christmas series dealing with the kinsmen of Christ.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Like intermittent scenes clipped from a film reel, the poignant domestic drama unfolds. It shows Jesus in the midst of a large, close-knit and concerned clan.

The home folks didn't always understand him, and were sometimes critical. But it was a fervently affectionate tribe there in the upland village of Nazareth, including at least a half dozen members Jesus' own age, a vigorous brood growing up "like olive shoots around the table," as the Psalms declare.

Young and old, they clung together, even when disagreeing. They sought to shield Jesus in that fold.

A succession of swift, brief glimpses interspersed throughout the gospel accounts, show both the strong attachments of that Davidic clan, and also the painful pull of duty beyond it.

Passover Trip Merry

Scene I: A familiar episode, it took place in Jesus' boyhood on one of those tribal pilgrimages to Jerusalem for the Passover celebration, a merry, festive trip which devout, economically able Jews made each spring.

Big families formed caravans, relatives from the same region traveling together. It was a week-long holiday outing, including the youths 12 and over. That year, Jesus went along for the first time.

On the way back to Galilee, so large and companionably mixed was that family throng that it had gone a day's journey before Jesus was missed. A halt, a whirl of inquiries, and an anxious Joseph and Mary headed back alone to the city.

For three days, they searched without rest. Finally, desperate and worn out, they found him on a colonnaded Temple porch with a group of learned scholars, engrossed in conversation.

Relieved, but annoyed at the distress he had caused them, his mother demanded, "Son, why have you treated us so? Behold, your father and I have been looking for you anxiously."

Don't Understand

Jesus looked at them with earnest appeal. "How is it that you sought me? Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?"

They didn't understand his meaning, Scripture notes. It

cluded them, baffled them, silenced them. Their eyes clouded, they hugged the boy and let the issue pass.

It was the last recorded episode in which Mary's upright, older husband, Joseph, figured. Tradition says he died shortly afterward. But it was only the start of that chain of perplexing incidents which reflected the family solitude, its dint and difficulty.

Scene II: "He came to his own home, and his own people received him not," the gospel of John reports. This happened after the initial phases of his ministry in the outlying towns of Galilee had stirred wide attention.

Returning to Nazareth, he was invited to lead synagogue services. He chose a trenchant passage from the prophet Isaiah: "The Spirit of the Lord . . . has anointed me to preach good news to the poor . . . to proclaim release to the captives . . . to set at liberty those who are oppressed . . ."

'Scripture Is Fulfilled'

He rolled up the scroll, adding, "Today this scripture has been fulfilled in your ears."

The townspeople, knowing him from his simple barefoot boyhood and as an ordinary maker of plows and yokes, were shocked by his monumental claim. "Is not this Joseph's son?" they whispered. "Where did this man get all this?" "Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary and brother of James and Joses and Judas and Simon, and are not his sisters here with us?"

Amid the skepticism, he lanced them further, saying that those face-to-face with truth often blindly rejected it, so that its blessings were bestowed elsewhere, even beyond the pale of God's chosen Jewish people.

"A prophet is not without honor," he said, "except in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house." They were incensed. A commotion began, turning into furious disorder.

A mob seized him, intending to hurl him off a cliff. His brothers, although skeptical of his claim, may have tried helplessly to stop them. But something else did—his own commanding dignity, a convicting look, his stunning calm.

The crowd hesitated. "Passing through the midst of them he went away," the record says. And he never returned to the family hearthside in Nazareth. It hurt him. Pathetically, he said, "Blessed is he who takes no offense at me."

Friends Shake Heads

Scene III: As excitement about him swirled elsewhere, his home-town friends shook their heads, saying, "He is beside himself." Officials denounced him. His relatives were worried to distraction.

At length, to caution him, his mother and brothers went to Capernaum where he had made his headquarters. A crowd overflowed a synagogue where he was preaching, clogging the entranceway. Someone recognized the family and passed word up to him. "Your mother and your brothers are outside, asking for you."

He looked back toward them, his eyes caressing them, but that other wider responsibility held him. "Who are my mother and my brothers?" Gazing about at the people, strangers from far and near, he spread his arms and added:

"Here are my mother and my brothers! Whoever does the will of God is my brother, and sister, and mother."

Scene IV: His renown grew throughout the province. But so did resentment of local officials, including Rome's puppet, King Herod Antipas.

Court rumors circulated that he would be arrested, executed. Some shaky followers withdrew support.

Family Alarmed

His family was alarmed. Jesus was temporarily encamped with his men in an isolated ravine. His brothers went to see him with a proposition they thought might get him out of immediate jeopardy, perhaps win him prestige in powerful Jerusalem circles.

"Leave here and go to Judea," the brothers advised. They doubted his whole mission but to test it, and for safety, wanted him to leave explosive Galilee and go to the capital city. "For no man works in secret if he seeks to be known openly. If you do these things, show yourself to the world."

Jesus studied them silently, perhaps remembering their childhood comradeship and trust, knowing the differences now between them.

"My time has not yet come, but your time is always here," he told them. They had married, borne sons, had respect of the community. "The world cannot hate you, but it hates me . . . Go to the feast yourselves: I am not going . . ."

Goes Up Secretly

Instead of joining the family caravan to Jerusalem for the Feast of the Tabernacles and making a public display, he went up secretly. His brothers "did not believe in him," the gospel states. He had to go without them, without the embracing confidence of that clan whose life he had shared.

It was not until after his crucifixion that they came to believe in him, his brothers and women kin joining the apostles in prayer "with one accord," the Book of Acts notes. The brothers later became leaders in a faith which they were so long in recognizing, even though, or perhaps because, it was so close to them—on their own street, in their own family, in their own everyday habitation.

To Your Good Health

'Buggy' Feeling Isn't Always in Imagination

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Some little time ago in reply to a letter about a woman who had a sensation of insects crawling on her skin, I suggested ed that if (as was reported to me) no one else in the family could detect the presence of insects, psychiatric treatment might be in order.

Emotional disturbances can make some people feel as though they are covered with insects.

Quite a few readers, however, wrote in of their experiences with insects that were hard to detect unless the search was very careful, and an entomologist — one who studies insects — added some practical advice on how to keep insects away.

L. M., in Indiana, thought she was pestered by invisible insects until finally, under a strong light, she discovered mites hardly bigger than a pinpoint.

Pinhead Spiders

Mrs. E. W. in Pennsylvania reported that she and her son both were bothered by similar mites, and by spiders of pinhead size, although nobody else in the family was bothered.

Mrs. M.B. in North Dakota said insect sprays didn't help her until she finally used a wasp and hornet spray. A.R.J., in Michigan, was the only one of four people in her household to be bothered, and her children looked at her, she said, "with pity," and her doctor attributed it to nerves until she found that rubbing herself with alcohol killed the tiny pests and she had evidence that it wasn't nerves or imagination. And there were others.

The entomologist, who wrote to me offered his suggestions.

Mites which feed on the blood of sparrows "often come into the house and attack individuals," he wrote, after the mites have been left in an abandoned nest. "They cause an intense crawling sensation on the skin and can cause a momentary but intense itching," he writes.

Mites and Fleas

Removing nests in the eaves or other crannies of the house, and spraying of the nesting area, will get rid of bird mites, he advises.

Mites and fleas from rats or other rodents can be similarly annoying, he says, and so can cat fleas — he suggests screening or similar methods to prevent cats from crawling under a house.

Insect sprays, he warns, may not end trouble with mites because they kill only mites present at the time. If old nests or other sources let more mites invade the house, the trouble goes on.

"If these sources are checked out," he says tartly, "and the 'buggy' sensations still occurs, then and only then can the victim be considered buggy enough for the head doctor. I hope in fairness to people who are attacked by such pests that you will find room in your column to print portions of this letter."

Gladly I do so.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am troubled with arthritis. We are very fond of applesauce and was surprised yesterday when a neighbor told me applesauce was bad for arthritis. Also coffee. Is there anything else it would be best to eliminate from my diet? — S.P.

Neither applesauce nor coffee will bother your arthritis. No special diet is necessary or helpful; just eat a normal, well-balanced diet and that is all that is either necessary or helpful so far as arthritis is concerned.

Note to M.P.: You should not be ridiculed for wanting to leave your body to a medical school. There is, in fact, an increasing need for this. You can write for a free leaflet on how to do it. Write to Order Department, American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610, and ask for "Leaving Your Body to Medical Science." (Copyright, 1967)

Defeat of Beer Bill Irks Gov. Knowles

Referendum Suggested as Way To Override 'Special Interests'

MADISON (AP)— Gov. Warren P. Knowles says the beer lobby is to blame for the Legislature's refusal to adopt a uniform beer drinking age.

Defeat of the legislation was a "shocking example of the triumph of special interests over the public interest," Knowles wanted to raise the age locally to 21.

The measure would not have provided a uniform age, Knowles said. "It was a bill of goods that the Senate had every right to refuse."

The governor suggested there perhaps should be a statewide referendum on the beer issue.

"Since the two houses of the Legislature cannot agree on the minimum age, I am beginning to believe that the only way this important issue can be resolved is by taking it directly to the people through a statewide referendum."

The only ways to initiate a referendum are through the Legislature or by statewide petition. The governor cannot order a question placed on the ballot.

"But they are a far cry from the comprehensive traffic safety program I presented to the Legislature last January," he said. "Worst of all, they fail to deal

Navajos Seek Federal Relief From Ravages of Snowstorm

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Navajo reservation officials are appealing for federal and state help as severe weather conditions continued today in Southwestern areas blanketed by six days of snow.

Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai, in asking President Johnson to declare the 16-million acre reservation a disaster area, said the situation was the most critical in the modern-day history of the Navajo nation.

Three persons were known dead on the reservation as a result of back-to-back winter storms which in the past week had claimed at least 32 lives in Arizona, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico.

And the end was not in sight.

'Snow Warnings'

Heavy snow warnings were posted today for mountain areas of California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and southern Idaho.

Six Air Force helicopters at Window Rock for search and rescue operations, on the reservation were grounded for the most part Monday as a fresh blizzard moved in and added to the snow which already had been whipped into drifts five feet high. Another half-foot of snow and winds of 35 miles per hour were forecast today.

One man from the St. Michael's area west of Window Rock said he had been trying to dig out of his ranch since last Thursday. When he reached Window Rock Monday night he said snow in the area reached up to the stomachs of cattle.

The latest fatality was a baby less than a week old who died of exposure Monday at Tolani Lake, about 60 miles northeast

Economists Predict Surtax

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists say the nation's economy, rebounding strongly from recent strikes, is expanding at a pace that will convince Congress of the need for higher taxes.

Reports of surging personal income, production and home building and a sharp drop in unemployment came too late Monday to do the administration any good during the congressional session which ended last Friday.

But the economic data now in for November paints a bullish type of picture the government experts had hoped for when Congress considered President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge earlier this year.

Fresh Ammunition

It should give the administration fresh ammunition when it resumes its bid for the surcharge before the House Ways and Means Committee about Jan. 22.

"They're awfully good-looking statistics," one analyst said of Monday's reports of the sharpest rise in personal income in more than two years and the fifth straight monthly advance in home building.

These reports from the Commerce Department followed announcements last week of the biggest jump in industrial output in three years, the sharpest drop in the unemployment rate in six years and a 15 per cent rise in retail sales which wiped out most of October's decline.

When Johnson submitted the surcharge proposal to Congress on Aug. 3, officials had hoped to back their arguments for passage with strong statistics of an expanding economy headed for inflation.

The signs were there but were inconsistent, especially when workers at the Ford Motor Co. struck in September. The copper strike and another by steel haulers added to the slowdown in statistical data.

But during November the major signs of economic activity moved ahead smartly in unison.

Government experts hedged their earlier predictions, however, on the assumption there would be no major automobile strike.

"I hate to say every road leads to Rome but every one of these statistics leads to Detroit," one economist said of the slowdown in economic activity during September and October.

The experts are glad to see their forecasts confirmed by the November data but the strong expansion indicates the economy is getting hot—uncomfortably so—one source said.

al Party leaders their feelings toward Australia's support for U.S. policy in Vietnam, which includes to date supplying some 6,000 Australian troops. The policy has generated stiff domestic opposition in Australia.

Before announcing he would attend the services Johnson issued a statement saying Americans mourned Holt "with all the grief that Australians feel." And he added: "My personal loss is heavy. Harold Holt was generous with the gift of a warm and wise heart. I found comfort in his friendship and strength in his partnership."

The assignment of Prince Charles, 19, will be his first mission as a representative of his mother, Queen Elizabeth II.

Wilson is planning to have talks with fellow-prime ministers of commonwealth and allied countries. If the occasion presents enough time for consultation with Johnson, it is possible that Wilson's projected journey to Washington early in the new year will be called off.

Three major topics could come up in the exchanges:

—The Vietnam war and ways of ending it. In this context the British leader will be in a position to give some details of his plans for an early meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in Moscow.

—Britain's future military role east of Suez, particularly in Malaysia and Singapore. Wilson's government is under pressure to speed up its eight-year program of withdrawing from the Asian mainland.

—Britain's future relations with Europe in the light of the expected failure to gain early entry into the Common Market. The French are blocking British

Seeking Adjournment

U.N. May Convene in Spring for Arms Talks

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly pressed on toward adjournment today after agreeing to meet again in the spring if a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons is ready then.

The 123-nation assembly hoped to finish its business tonight. It was expected to push through a proposal by the United States, the Soviet Union and 13 other nations calling on the 17-nation Geneva Disarmament Committee to complete the nuclear nonproliferation treaty by March 15. The assembly then would reconvene as soon as possible to take final action on the draft.

The nonproliferation treaty has been under discussion in Geneva since 1959. The United States and Russia have agreed on all articles but the one dealing with inspection procedures.

Tension Growing

Secretary-General U. Thant stressed the dangers of spreading war in a holiday message to members of his staff. He said that in the past year "I have seen more crises and greater international tension than I can recall at any time during the 11 years I have spent with the United Nations."

Thant touched on the Vietnam war and the Middle East crisis but expressed certainty that the crisis of confidence in the United Nations "can and must be overcome."

"There is no other alternative to the ever looming danger of a nuclear catastrophe," he said.

Also before the Assembly were:

Suspend Testing

—A 20-nation resolution urging all nuclear powers to suspend nuclear tests of all kinds and calling on the Geneva group to get busy on a comprehensive test ban treaty.

—A three-nation draft asking the Geneva group to resume debate on the elimination of foreign military bases in Asia, Africa and Latin America and report back to next session.

—A 32-nation resolution asking the disarmament committee to resume consideration "at the earliest possible date" of a treaty on general disarmament.

—A proposal by 21 smaller nations for an international conference of the nonnuclear nations starting next August.

All the resolutions were overwhelmingly approved Monday by the assembly's main political committee, assuring their adoption by the assembly.

Rockefeller Stays In Background But ...

New York Governor Keeping Abreast
Of Foreign Affairs Just in Case

BY ROLAND EVANS
AND ROBERT NOVAK
NEW YORK — At regular intervals these days Harvard Professor Henry A. Kissinger journeys from Boston to New York to give Gov. Nelson Rockefeller secret briefings on foreign policy.

Evans Novak

Although the Rockefeller camp would undoubtedly try to pass these briefings off as routine preparations for the governor's expected battles over the Republican platform next year, the fact is they are far more significant than that.

The help being given Rockefeller by Kissinger, an expert in international relations who has often performed chores for Rockefeller in the past, is in fact based on nothing less than the possibility that Rockefeller will end up as the Republican presidential nominee at Miami Beach next summer.

Moreover, the secret nature of Kissinger's foreign policy briefings fits in with the fact, still unpublished, that Rockefeller's intention to take the 92-vote convention delegation to Miami Beach as New York's favorite son will soon be announced. That would spell the end of Sen. Jacob K. Javits's highly publicized bid (never taken seriously) to be New York's favorite son candidate as prelude to Javits's vice presidential bid.

Arranging Format

Highly confidential talks are now in progress here between Rockefeller, Javits, and New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay to arrange the proper format for the Rockefeller favorite-son announcement. Rockefeller has flatly ruled out making the announcement himself. He fears, with excellent reason, that it would be taken as another sign of an inexorable shifting away from his professed posture as non-candidate.

Thus the announcement will be dressed up by the New York state Republican executive committee as a simple effort to hold the mammoth New York delegation together on behalf of Michigan Gov. George Romney. Privately, Rockefeller explains that the delegation will be less likely to fracture under convention pressures if he is its leader, rather than Javits.

For his part Javits will state that all his political efforts now must go into his campaign for re-election, and that he will not have time to head the delegation.

In the Rockefeller camp there is some concern whether Lindsay, the brightest liberal star in the party's future, will go along with this plan, but these fears are not taken very seriously.

None of this signifies that Rockefeller is about to complete a transformation from non-candidate to candidate. To the contrary, Rockefeller means it when he says that no power on earth could drag him into the presidential primaries.

What it does signify is that the Rockefeller camp begins for the first time to see a real possibility that the nomination will not go either to Rockefeller-backed Romney or to Richard M. Nixon (even if Nixon wins all the primaries, which Rockefeller thinks he will not).

There is some reason for this hope in the Rockefeller camp. As we reported from Palm Beach, a large number of Republican governors refuse to accept the inevitability of a Nixon nomination despite his growing edge in the polls among Republican voters. Far more important to them is Nixon's inability to catch up to Rockefeller in the polls covering all voters, Republican and Democratic. Against President John F. Kennedy, Rockefeller wins, Nixon loses.

Polls Important

This skepticism about Nixon's election chances is by no means limited to the Republican governors. Conservative Representative Bob Wilson of California, who runs the house Republican campaign committee, says the Rockefeller-Johnson versus Nixon-Johnson polls will be far more important to the convention than who wins the primaries. Wilson's counterpart in the senate, Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, tells us that Nixon can't lock up the nomination even by winning all the primaries if the big-state governors "don't get caught in the wake" of Nixon's primary victories and cave in.

Hence Rockefeller's watchful waiting, a posture designed to preserve him from the primary election blood-letting of 1964 but to keep him ready for action just behind center stage, fortified by his absolutely essential high standing in the polls.

To back into the presidential nomination that way is to place an extraordinary faith in fatalism — to substitute a policy of furious inaction for the careful (and totally unsuccessful) strategic plotting that marked Rockefeller's 1964 campaign.

But it's the way he's chosen and, in fact, the only way there is to choose.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 19, the 353rd day of 1967. There are 12 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1777, George Washington and his Continental Army troops began their winter encampment at Valley Forge, Pa.

On this date:

In 1675, in the last battle in King Philip's war, British colonists defeated the Narragansett Indians in Rhode Island.

In 1776, the American patriot, Thomas Paine, said: "These are the times that try men's souls."

In 1812, the British occupied Fort Niagara.

In 1941, during World War II, British troops withdrew from Penang in Malaya.

Also in 1941, Adolf Hitler took over as commander-in-chief of the German army.

In 1946, war broke out in Indochina as forces under Ho Chi Minh launched attacks against the French. Ten years ago, the Soviet Union claimed its industrial production had risen 10 per cent in one year.

Five years ago, the United States rejected the Soviet proposal for a moratorium on nuclear testing without a system of policing.

One year ago, Jack Ruby said he alone was responsible for the killing of Lee Harvey Oswald.

Music to Celebrate Philadelphia Founding

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Orchestra will commission a major orchestral work for Philadelphia's 1976 bicentennial celebration, says C. Winton Balis, president of the orchestra association.

Eugene Ormandy, the orchestra's conductor and musical director, will select an outstanding American composer to write the work, Balis said recently.

The world premiere of the work will be performed by the orchestra in Philadelphia on July 4, 1976.
